

Democracy Is Big Objective, F. D. R. States

'We Want It to Work,' He Tells Colorado Crowd

SILENT ON PRIMARY

'Don't Want to Copy Other Forms of Government'

Aboard President Roosevelt's train enroute to San Francisco—(P)—President Roosevelt asserted today that "we want democracy to work."

"That is our chief objective," the president told a crowd estimated by police at more than 15,000, in a brief rear platform address from his special train at Pueblo, Colo.

"We don't want to copy other forms of government," he said. "Ours is good enough for us."

The president avoided reference to Colorado's Democratic senatorial primary, making no mention either of Senator Alva B. Adams or his primary rival, Judge Benjamin C. Hilliard.

Mr. Roosevelt devoted much of his Pueblo talk to describing the government's efforts toward conservation of natural resources, and described the government as "a common meeting ground" for the states in adjustments of their differences, particularly those involving water.

Aboard President Roosevelt's train enroute to San Francisco—(P)—President Roosevelt, none the worse for a rain drenching, pushed on today into Colorado's rocky mountains.

The president arranged for a pleasant day of sightseeing and little work. Easing down on speech-making as he traveled westward on his transcontinental tour, the chief executive scheduled only one train platform speech, that at Pueblo, Colo.

His address last night at Amarillo, Texas, Ellwood park was delivered in a driving, wind-blown rain. The president, spinning a rain coat, stood hatless facing the storm.

He interspersed a talk on farming and water conservation with jests on the rain. More seriously, the president said at the end of his speech:

"Shower Good Omen"

"I think this little shower that we've had is a mighty good omen."

That remark, coming while the rain soaked the president to the skin and blew so hard in his face that his eyes were squinted, brought a roar from the Amarillo stood bowl crowd.

Speeding onward from that Texas city, White House officials aboard the presidential special train announced Governor Teller Ammons and Senators Alva B. Adams and Edwin C. Johnson of Colorado would greet the president at Pueblo.

There was a political tone to the president's train platform talks yesterday and the Amarillo speech. In them he said kind words for Representative Marvin Jones, Lyndon D. McFarlane, all Texans. One of the talks was devoted to giving Governor James V. Alfred of Texas as a federal district judgeship appointment at the back end of the train.

With Jones, the house agriculture committee chairman, at his side, Mr. Roosevelt told the Texas panhandle audience at Amarillo that "we need a greater permanency and greater annual security for those who use the soil."

Major Objections

The president said the administration's agricultural program is not a subsidy and explained that it had three principal objectives:

- (1) Prevention of overproduction and low prices.
- (2) Decreasing farm tenancy and increasing farm ownership.
- (3) After saying the government was endeavoring to "apply common

A Man's World?

Women have the advantage, these warm days, at least in the matter of dress. Sun-backs, short sleeves, the sheerest of hosiery and the coolest sandals, all aid in keeping muggy air-conditioned. But with men... it's a different story. Long sleeves, shirts and ties that look uncomfortable to say the least and suits that envelope them from head to foot, would certainly be cause for complaint.

Maybe it's a man's world... but the girls get all the breaks in the summertime. You'll get the breaks if you advertise your vacant room or apartment for rent in The Post-Crescent. You'll find tenants before you know it.

Farm Officials Outlining New Loan Program

Advances Expected to be About 59 Cents Per Bushel on Wheat

MINIMUM FIGURE

Provisions Not to be Announced at Washington for Several Days

Washington—(P)—Federal farm officials began drafting details today of a wheat loan program, made mandatory by the forecast of a near-record crop.

Although provisions will not be announced for a few days, it was generally expected the loans would be about 59 cents a bushel, the minimum allowed under the new crop control act. The maximum is about 85 cents.

The loans can be obtained by farmers who wish to store their wheat until prices improve. They are required by law whenever the July estimate of production exceeds normal domestic and export needs of about 750,000,000 bushels.

Near 1915 Record

The federal crop reporters predicted yesterday a yield of 987,102,000 bushels, only 41,000,000 bushels short of the record 1915 crop.

H. R. Tolley, agricultural adjustment administrator, said that storage of wheat under government loans was not the only method the administration expects to employ to combat the surplus problem.

"We've got to export a lot of wheat," he said.

The administrator said that consideration was being given, among others, to proposals to subsidize exports of the grain, but that no decision had been reached.

Wheat Exports

Exports of 1937 wheat totaled about 85,000,000 bushels. Tolley said present prospects for exports during the next 12 months did not exceed 100,000,000 bushels.

A third step in the surplus removal program, he explained, will be promulgation this week of a program for a small wheat crop next year. Growers may be asked, he said, to plant only 53,000,000 acres, compared with 79,500,000 seeded for this year's crop.

IN SENATE RACE

Madison—(P)—Edward J. Samp of Madison, former chairman of the Republican State Executive Committee, announced today he will be a candidate for the Republican nomination for United States senator in the September primary.

He will enter the contest, he said, on the issues of "political dictatorship versus representative government."

If all of the candidates who have joined the scramble to defeat United States Senator F. Ryan Duffy, actually file nomination papers, the race for Republican nomination will be at least a five-sided affair. Other candidates are Stephen J. McMahon and William H. Stafford of Milwaukee, John B. Chappie of Ashland and W. G. Campbell of Oshkosh.

3 Slot Machines Confiscated in Raids on Taverns

Forty-Three Places Visited By Sheriff's Officers in General Clean-Up

Three tavern owners were to appear in municipal court this afternoon to face charges of possession of gambling devices following a raid in Outagamie county conducted by Undersheriff Fred Frank yesterday.

Forty-three taverns were visited by the undersheriff and deputies in a general clean-up of the county following a number of complaints made by the Appleton Ministerial association that taverns were having slot machines for play.

Undersheriff Frank this morning said that a check was being made of the complaints by District Attorney Raymond P. Dohr and Sheriff John Lappen, but that they began their vacations this week. Lappen had instructed Frank to continue with the check, the undersheriff explained.

The raids began yesterday afternoon and continued last night. Several taverns also were visited this morning by the undersheriff. Slot machines were found in three taverns and were seized by the sheriff's department.

Insurgents Fight Way Into Espanan Region

Hendaye, France, at the Spanish Frontiers

Hendaye, France, at the Spanish Frontiers—(P)—Spanish insurgents said today they had fought their way against desperate government resistance to high positions in the Espanan mountains from which they could see the ancient crossroads town of Sagunto, key to Valencia.

Sagunto, at the junction of the Castellon-Valencia and the Teruel-Mediterranean highways, is 14 miles north of Valencia. It is the next major objective of the eastern insurgent drive.

Earlier government dispatches say hand-to-hand fighting in the Espanan mountains had slowed down General Garcia Valino's Narbonne troops, reported within sight of Segorbe, 15 miles northwest of Sagunto on the Teruel-Mediterranean highway.

Wausau Attorney Is Named County Judge

Madison—(P)—Frank P. Regner, Wausau attorney, was appointed county judge of Marathon county by Governor LaFollette today. He succeeds Judge George J. Leicht, Wausau, who was transferred from the county bench to the sixteenth circuit court after retirement of Judge A. H. Reid.

6 Members of German-American League Sentenced for Violating New York State Civil Rights Law

Riverhead, N. Y.—(P)—After deliberating less than two minutes, a Suffolk county jury today convicted all six defendants and the German-American Settlement League on charges of violating the state civil rights law.

Judge L. Barron Hill immediately sentenced the defendants, officers and directors of the league, to near maximum penalties.

He also stated that he would request the district attorney's office to prepare minutes of the trial to forward to "the proper federal authorities" in Washington.

Judge Hill characterized certain phases of the testimony and actions of the defendants at the trial as "amazing," referring to the statement of one of the defendants who gave the Nazi salute to the American flag and when asked if that was the American salute replied: "No, but it will be."

U. S. Property Is Destroyed At Kiukiang

Chinese Destroying All Valuable Holdings as They Retreat

JAP BOMBERS BUSY

Most Civilians in Flight, Refuge Zone Established at Kuling

Shanghai—(P)—Japanese bombers raided Chinese positions on the outskirts of Kiukiang today while Chinese defenders, preparing to fight to a finish and intending to leave nothing valuable behind, systematically destroyed Kiukiang waterfront properties, including American possessions.

Japanese troops attempted to land on the west bank of the channel leading into Poyang lake, 10 miles due east of Kiukiang, which is 135 miles down the Yangtze river from Hankow, present Chinese capital and Japanese goal.

Japanese warships put down a barrage to cover the troops' advance. Inside Kiukiang the Chinese rushed barbed-wire entanglements, sandbag barricades and trenches in the streets.

Most civilians had fled with foreign missionaries from Kiukiang, establishing an emergency refuge zone at Kuling, a mountain resort 13 miles away.

Bomb Jap Warships

Chinese planes bombed Japanese warships off Pengtseh and Hukow. They claimed several hits.

Chinese forces occupied British property along the Kiukiang riverfront, mounting guns and cutting loopholes in warehouses and wharf buildings.

Reports from British companies indicated the Chinese were determined to utilize every means to repulse a Japanese landing at Kiukiang. The dispatches also said Chinese decided to destroy riverfront property of the Standard Oil company because of "military necessity."

Despite vigorous American protests through United States Ambassador Nelson T. Johnson, the Chinese blew up two huge steel pontoons owned by the Standard Oil.

Inquest Is Delayed in Woman's Death; Coal Dust Found in Lungs

Ashland—(P)—An inquest into the death of an unidentified woman of about 30, whose body was found in the White river Sunday evening, was held up today as Bayfield county authorities studied post-mortem findings which showed indentations on the woman's head and coal dust in her lungs.

The body, badly decomposed, was found by Lew Brown, 28, while he was fishing the river in the town of Kelly.

Authorities admitted the possibility that the woman might have met with foul play elsewhere, and the body brought here. Dr. Fred G. Johnson of Iron River, who performed the autopsy, said presence of the coal dust indicated the woman was a resident of some metropolitan city.

The woman's fingerprints were turned over to the F.B.I. in hopes of identification.

Sheriff Hjalmar Falkman described the woman as weighing 125 or 130 pounds, 5 feet 4 inches tall, dark brown hair, blue eyes, and having an upper denture. She wore a red slipover sweater, light skirt, red anklets, and rubber-soled moccasins.

Sheboygan Falls—(P)—Joseph Ryan, of Milwaukee, operator of the Paddock club at Elkhart Lake, was found guilty today of possessing gambling devices and was sentenced by Justice of the Peace Aaron Meel to pay a fine of $100 or serve six months jail sentence.

Sheriff Joseph Dreps of Sheboygan county and a deputy who accompanied him on the raid were the only witnesses.

Middle West Is Preparing for Visit of Royalty

Chicago—(P)—The midwest was putting down the red carpet today for the visit of Crown Prince Gustaf Adolf and Crown Princess Louise of Sweden, their son, Prince Bertil and their suites.

Beginning Thursday, the royal party will have a five-day visit in Illinois and Minnesota, and the numerous festivities in their honor will be climaxed Saturday night when the Swedes in the midwest join in an elaborate celebration in Chicago's Soldier field.

The crown prince and crown princess will be the house guests of Mr. and Mrs. William McCormick Blair, friends of several years, at Lake Bluff, Ill.

Judge Jails Lola Man for Contempt

Prisoner Refused to Unlock Severson's Office Despite Court Order

Stevens Point—(P)—A six-day county jail sentence for contempt of court was given Walter Hatch of Iowa yesterday by Circuit Judge Byron B. Park because Sheriff Duncan Campbell declared Hatch refused to unlock the door of an office occupied by State Senator Herman Severson, seventh judicial circuit judge-elect.

Hatch, as trustee for the closed Iowa Farmers' State bank, padlocked Severson's office last May because, he claimed, Severson had not paid rent. Severson countered with the statement he owed less than was due him from the bank for legal services.

Severson obtained a court order instructing Hatch to open the door, or surrender the padlock key. Campbell served the order, and said Hatch would do neither. Campbell removed the hinges to open the door, and Hatch was cited for contempt.

FARMHAND KILLED

U. S. Grand Jury Is Convened at Badger Capital

7 Oil Concerns and 15 Individuals in Industry To be Heard

Madison—(P)—A federal grand jury convened here today to consider a variety of cases including one or more in which seven oil companies and fifteen persons associated with the industry have been called to testify.

United States District Attorney John J. Boyle said the jury met to "transact business of every kind and character relating to cases that have developed in the Western Wisconsin district." The last general session was convened in February.

Boyle said between 40 and 50 cases would be presented to the jury. These include one white slave case, Dwyler act and internal revenue act violations, and others.

Herbert C. Hale, court clerk, disclosed last week on authorization of Federal Judge Patrick T. Stone that subpoenas had been served on 22 oil companies and individuals. John Henry Lewin, of the attorney general's staff, said in Washington that more oil men might be called later.

Lewin said he expected to go before the jury July 20 with a case that involved the same subject matter—price-fixing—that was raised in the conspiracy trial that ended last Jan. 22 with the conviction of 30 individuals and 16 major oil companies. These defendants are scheduled to come before Judge Stone July 19 to hear his decisions on motions to set aside the verdict and to grant a new trial.

Two-Foot Alligator Escapes at Two Rivers

Two Rivers—(P)—Somewhere in Two Rivers a two-foot alligator probably is looking for a warm spot. The gator arrived by express at the tavern of Joseph Hoffman as a gift of Joseph Derocher of Two Rivers, who is visiting in New Orleans. Hoffman, at a loss what to do with the creature, lived up an enclosure back of his place. An hour later, when he went out to show a friend the unusual present, the alligator was gone.

Completes Three of Six Legs of Long Aerial Journey

STOPS TO REFUEL

Flies 1,380 Miles From Moscow in 7 Hours, 35 Minutes

Moscow—(P)—Howard Hughes landed his big silver monoplane at 9 o'clock tonight (noon, Appleton time), at Omsk, Siberia, approximately halfway point of his round-the-world flight.

As Omsk Hughes had covered 6,686 miles of his projected 14,709 mile globe circling course and had completed three of the intended six legs of his journey.

The American flier and his four companions covered the 1,380-mile distance from Moscow in 7 hours 35 minutes.

Hughes indicated that Yakutsk, Siberia, 2,177 miles northeast of Omsk, would be his next halting place. As soon as he landed refueling of his plane began.

Ahead of Record

Forty-two hours, 40 minutes out of New York, Hughes was well ahead of the round-the-world record of the late Wiley Post.

(Post did not stop at Omsk, but he took slightly over 60 hours to reach Novosibirsk, 600 miles further east.)

Hughes hopped for Omsk at 1:25 p. m. (4:25 a. m. Appleton time), today. The silver monoplane made a beautiful takeoff.

He and his four colleagues had landed at Moscow's central airport at 11:13 a. m. (2:13 a. m. Appleton time) from Paris, completing the second leg of their flight.

Reports of good weather were received from points along the Siberian route as far as the Bering straits, separating Russian territory from Alaska.

One Attempt Fails

Hughes and his comrades got off from Moscow after one unsuccessful attempt, which was defeated by a change in direction of the wind. But they finally cleared the field with a heavy fuel load.

Their flying time for the 1,541 miles from Paris was 7 hours and 49 minutes, and they refueled at once for the next hop of 1,624 miles to Omsk. In their effort to beat the world record of 7 days, 18 hours and 43 minutes set by Wiley Post in 1931, weather indications were adverse winds the first 1,000 miles with a favorable breeze after that.

Representatives of the American embassy and Alexander Troyanovsk, the Soviet ambassador to Washington, who is home on leave were in the crowd that watched the silver ship glide to a perfect landing out of the cloudless, summer sky.

Hughes said the night from Paris was smooth at high altitude. Radio Engineer Richard S. Stoddard explained they encountered icing.

Dr. McCormick was exalted ruler of the Toledo lodge in 1921 and in 1931 was elected grand exalted leading knight of the grand lodge. In 1935 he became grand exalted, and for the last three years he has been grand treasurer.

For 18 months during the World war he served with the 46th North Central division of the British Expeditionary forces, and upon his return to the United States he served for a time at the Walter Reed hospital in Washington before being commissioned a lieutenant commander in the United States naval reserve.

King George Signs Documents in Bed; Talks to Windsor

Windsor, England—(P)—King George VI, suffering recovered from a sudden attack of diphtheria, signed state papers in bed, sent Queen Elizabeth to London today to take his place in a presentation party in Buckingham palace.

The king had a quiet night and this morning was reported to be "settling on well." Last night the Duke of Windsor, his brother and predecessor, called from the Windsor chateau in southern France and had a five-minute chat with the king over a bedside telephone.

The monarch was on a strict fluid diet and was forbidden to see visitors. Propped up in bed with pillows, however, he telephoned Queen Mother Mary, his brother, the Duke of Kent, and other members of the royal family and conducted some state business.

A drop in his temperature encouraged a belief the king, after several days' rest, would be able to fulfill his long-standing engagement to make a state visit to Paris beginning July 19.

Court Vacancy May Await Next Congress Term

Roosevelt May Withhold Appointment Until January Session

Washington (AP)—The possibility that President Roosevelt might delay selection of a new supreme court justice until congress meets in January was considered today by capital politicians.

Attorney General Cummings held last August that an appointment to the court could be made whether congress was in session or in recess. Hence, if the president desired, he could choose a successor to the late Justice Benjamin Cardozo in time for the beginning of the court term in October.

The senate, however, eventually must pass on all recess appointments. There were some who suggested that Mr. Roosevelt might prefer to have the senate vote on his nominee before the latter actually took his seat, lest the nomination be rejected and cause embarrassment.

Precedent in 1795

There is precedent for such a rejection.

John Rutledge of South Carolina, who had resigned as associate justice of the supreme court to become chief justice of the state's highest court, was appointed Chief Justice of the United States by President Washington in 1795.

It was a recess appointment dated Aug. 12. Rutledge held his new office during the August term. Then he left Philadelphia, where the court sat, to go on circuit duty.

He never returned to the supreme court. As soon as the senate convened Dec. 16, the appointment was rejected by vote of 10 to 14. Supporters of Washington had resented Rutledge's criticism of the treaty negotiated by John Jay with Great Britain.

Other appointments

Two other justices took their seats while congress was in recess, and four weeks later were confirmed by the senate. They were Levi Woodbury of New Hampshire, appointed in 1845, and Benjamin Curtis of Massachusetts, chosen in 1851.

Ten more justices were appointed during recesses, but did not sit on the court until confirmation. Officials said that the acts of a justice who sits during a recess appointment are valid up to the last day of the next senate session. He would have to leave the court if the senate did not grant him a permanent commission.

Mr. Roosevelt has given no indication, as far as is known here, when he will select Justice Cardozo's successor or whom he will appoint.

Appleton Man's Auto Damaged in Collision

An automobile driven by Donald Hando, 1019 W. Winnebago street, was slightly damaged when it was struck by a person in a stolen car at Oshkosh Saturday night. Hando was instrumental in having the stolen machine returned to the owner, Carl D. Wendt, Oshkosh.

The machine was stolen early Saturday evening and the collision with Hando occurred later on the lake shore road north of the city. Following the collision, the driver of the stolen car failed to stop and Hando trailed the machine until it was abandoned near an Oshkosh residence. The car narrowly missed a porch and damaged some shrubs. Evidently intoxicated, the driver fled leaving the machine with the lights burning. Police said Wendt had left his keys in the car and did not discover his loss until he prepared to leave for his home. The thief has not yet been found.

Request 8 Electric Extension REA Loans

Madison—Dr. John A. Becker, director of the state rural electrification coordination, announced today eight rural electric extension loans totaling $840,000 have been requested from the Rural Electrification administration.

The extensions include Banner Municipal utility, LaCrosse county, $25,000; Oconto Electric cooperative, Oconto Falls, $150,000; Taylor County Electric cooperative, Medford, $75,000; Pierce-Peppin Electric cooperative, Ellsworth, $80,000; Cooperative Electric association, Richland Center, $100,000; Rock County Electric cooperative, Janesville, $60,000; Vernon Electric cooperative, Weston, $150,000; and Clark Electric cooperative, Greeneville, $250,000.

Loans for Building Program Will Take Half of State Insurance Fund Assets

Madison—The state insurance fund will have about half its assets, and 76 per cent of its invested surplus invested in the state office building and Orthopedic hospital when the present building program is completed, according to figures released by the Wisconsin Taxpayers' Alliance.

The expenditure of $600,000 appropriated by the 1937 legislature from the state insurance fund for construction of the state office building plus previous expenditures will bring the total debt of the state general fund to the state insurance fund to $1,825,378. The alliance pointed out, this figure includes $1,619,230 appropriated for the office building and $275,148 due to the state Orthopedic hospital.

"Assets of the state insurance fund on Dec. 31, 1937 amounted to $3,810,625. Bonds held by the fund amounted to $2,125,525 on that date. Other assets included $788,252 already spent for the state office building and $276,148 for the Orthopedic hospital.

Largest Investment

"The additional $800,000 office building appropriation from the state insurance fund is realized from the sale of its present bond holdings. The bond investment will drop from $2,125,000 to about $1,300,000 and the investment in state buildings will increase to $1,895,000 for the latter, single investment of the fund, the alliance bulletin stated.

Whether the investment in the state office building and the Orthopedic hospital will impair the liquidity of the state insurance fund depends upon possible demands for fire or tornado loss claims against the fund. Although about 76 per cent of the fund's listed surplus will be invested in these state buildings, there will remain a continuing reserve of $1,148,000 plus a balance of listed surplus of $600,000 available to meet claims. If this is not sufficient, the law provides that losses may be paid from the state's general fund.

"The state insurance fund insures only public property. Most of this is state property, although some municipalities insure heavily in the fund. There was about $92,200,000 of tornado insurance and $78,800,000 of fire insurance in force against the fund on Dec. 31, 1937," the alliance stated.

Applicants' Test Papers Checked by Police Commission

Members of the Appleton Fire and Police commission last night checked examination papers written by more than 30 applicants for police jobs last Friday.

Applicants who passed the tests will be called before the commission within the next two weeks for an oral examination. Each commissioner will pick the man he thinks best suited for the job and three will be selected for final consideration.

One of the applicants will be selected to fill the vacancy on the force caused by the death of Edward Court, motorcycle officer, who died June 6, and the others will be placed on the department eligibility list.

After Pueblo, his train was routed northwestward through the scenic beauties of the Royal gorge. A sightseeing stop was scheduled for hanging bridge.

Stops for servicing the train with fuel and water were scheduled for Parkdale, Salida, Malta, Minturn and Grand Junction in Colorado and at Green River in Utah.

Governor Henry H. Blood of Utah was due to join the train at Malta, Colo.

Late last night, White House officials announced that the president had taken the advice of California state officials and the secret service in cancelling a proposed visit to the O'Shaughnessy dam on July 15. Instead, Mr. Roosevelt will spend all that day in Yosemite park.

holdings, they claimed deductions from their income tax for the losses indicated by the difference between the original value of the securities and the prices at which the securities were sold.

The board said, "when summed up, our whole question is one as to whether the transactions considered are such as the statutes as to deductible losses intended and contemplated, or were pure transactions to escape tax liability."

"The matter before us here required examination in the light of the ordinary actions and reactions of men, guided by criteria of reasonable human behavior in business transactions."

"So viewed, they demonstrate, in our opinion, the complete improbability of the assertions of petitioner that the sales were bona fide, real, free from agreement to reacquire, in spite of the result—the complete return to original ownership. Such a result could conceivably be without design, but such a thing would be entirely too remarkable for belief."

"Men do not conduct themselves and accomplish the end as did these parties toward each other, and attain an end so advantageous to their fortunes, without a common understanding. This design was too complete to be without design."

"The record before us bears its transparency, and though the respondent (government) had, contrary to the usual situation, the burden of proof because of having raised this issue after proceeding was filed, in our opinion that burden was abundantly met."

"To reach a different conclusion would require us to be blind to fact and to place a premium on ingenuity, rather than bona fides."

21 County Youths Leave For Stay at CCC Camps

Twenty-one Outagamie county youths left yesterday for CCC camps in the northern part of the state, according to the Outagamie County Public Welfare department. Fourteen youths went to the camp on Long Lake and seven to Seneca Lake. Another group will be taken next week, if the county's quota is increased.

Testify Tavernkeeper Was Tipped Off on Slot Machine Raid in Waukesha County

Waukesha, Wis.—(AP)—District Attorney Scott Lowry and several Waukesha county deputies testified in circuit court today they told Sheriff Walter A. Yiskowitz they had seen slot machines in taverns.

The county officials were among 20 state witnesses called in the trial of Sheriff Liskowitz on charges of malfeasance in office. Liskowitz faces six counts with failing to cooperate in cleaning up county gambling and with tipping off a tavernkeeper before a raid.

A grand jury indicted the sheriff, Municipal Judge David Evans, former District Attorney Herman Salen and several tavern operators. Special Prosecutor Roland J. Steine also summoned to testify today 13 tavernkeepers who admitted having slot machines during the first eight months of 1937.

Key witnesses today included former Sheriff Alvin J. Redford and Clarence Keebler, bookkeeper in the sheriff's office.

Redford testified he saw three tavern operators, Joseph Martin of Delafield, Garland Ruckewitz of Chenequa and Herman Rollink of Milwaukee come to the sheriff's office for a conference with Liskowitz.

Keebler said he knew of the presence of slot machines and had told Liskowitz of them. He said he also informed the sheriff of a conversation with certain "persons" who told him that certain machines with identifying "buttons" were not to be confiscated—that they had been granted immunity. Keebler said he never saw any such buttons.

Waukesha, Wis.—(AP)—Testimony that Robert Carroll, town of Pewaukee tavernkeeper, had been tipped off on a slot machine raid by Sheriff Walter Liskowitz was in the record today as the trial of the Waukesha county official on six counts of malfeasance in office continued.

Judge Sherman E. Smalley of Cuba City is presiding over the jury trial.

A dozen witnesses were called yesterday in introductory state testimony, with Special Prosecutor Roland J. Steine of Milwaukee putting the questions.

Thomas Davies, a Waukesha carpenter, testified in October, 1937, he lost some of his pay check money in slot machines in the tavern of Robert Carroll, and he complained to District Attorney Scott Lowry.

Lowry, he said, complained in turn to the sheriff and Liskowitz directed the machines be picked up. Lowry corroborated the testimony.

Carroll testified that on that October afternoon he had received two telephone calls from "Soddy," which he said was Liskowitz's nickname. On the first call, he said, he was asked if he had any slot machines. He quoted Liskowitz as saying, "there's been complaints about your machines. Get them down." The second call, 15 minutes later, Carroll testified, warned him not to mention the call. Then, Carroll said, Deputy Mutch came with Davies.

Harvey Schimmell, a former deputy under Sheriff Alvin Moran, testified he and three others in January, 1936, stopped at the tavern of Edward Huttner, and saw slot machines and Sheriff Liskowitz present. The machines were played while the sheriff was present.

Low Spines testified he saw Liskowitz in the tavern of Reinhold Schott and Okauchee, and that Schott had machines in operation. (Schott yesterday pleaded guilty before Circuit Judge C. M. Davison to operating slot machines and was fined $150.)

Alvin Redford, a deputy sheriff, testified he had given Liskowitz a friendly warning during May, June, July and August, 1937, that the slot machines were being operated in the county, and that Liskowitz should get them "or they would get his job."

Shelton, vowing never to go near the riverbank again, left for some dry clothes.

Redecorate Zion Lutheran Church And Parish School

Project, Including Work On 163-Foot Steeple, to Take Several Weeks

Zion Lutheran church and parish school is undergoing a job of redecorating which will require several weeks to complete. The metal work on the church from the steeple down to the ground is being repainted and the outside woodwork on the school including window sashes and doors are receiving a fresh coat of paint. The work, which requires the service of steeple-jacks as the church steeple is 163 feet high, was begun last week.

"Lip Service and Heart Service" was the subject of the sermon given last Sunday morning at Zion church by the Rev. Theodore Marth, pastor.

The Rev. I. E. Schlagenhauf, district superintendent of Appleton district, is having a busy week this week. He will conduct quarterly conferences in the Methodist church at Iola Tuesday night, Amherst Wednesday, Stoves Point Thursday and Brillion Friday. Next Sunday morning he will preside at services at Camp Byron near Fond du Lac at which Bishop J. Ralph Magee of the St. Paul area will speak, and in the evening he will preach at the camp meeting. At 4:30 Sunday afternoon he will attend the ceremony of laying the cornerstone at the Neenah Methodist church.

Ice Cream Social

Junior Young Peoples' Missionary circle of Emmanuel Evangelical church will hold an ice cream social this evening on the parsonage lawn beginning at 6 o'clock. Last Sunday morning Captain Henry Servais of Harrisburg, Ill., former commanding officer of the Salvation Army in Appleton, preached at the Evangelical church.

Mrs. H. A. Petersen's circle of Women's Union of First Baptist church is holding a picnic supper at 6 o'clock this evening at Pierce park. On Thursday the union will have a general meeting at the church to which members will bring old sheets and pieces of percale to make quilts. The Rev. R. H. Spangler, pastor, spoke last Sunday on "Some Lessons from the Life of Jacob."

Events for the week at St. John Evangelical and Reformed church include a Brotherhood meeting at 7:45 this evening in the sub auditorium and a church board meeting Thursday night, "The High Calling" was the subject of the sermon preached by the Rev. A. Guenther, pastor, last Sunday.

Outdoor Meeting

Christian Mothers society of St. Joseph's church is having an outdoor meeting following a picnic luncheon today at Pierce park.

At St. Paul Lutheran church Sunday the Rev. T. J. Sauer, honorar pastor, spoke on "Our Here and Hereafter." Dr. Thomas S. Kepler, professor of Bible and religion at Lawrence college, preached at First Methodist church on "God's Dialog with Man."

Union services for Memorial Presbyterian and First Congregational churches Sunday morning at the former church were conducted by the Rev. William A. Jacobs, Menasha, whose sermon subject was "The Burdens of Modern Life and Religions." At the Gospel temple the Rev. Milton Tucker, evangelist, preached in the morning and evening.

A sermon on the Lord's Prayer was given by the Rev. Philip Froehke, pastor of St. Matthew Lutheran church, at his church Sunday. "The Wisdom of God in the Structure of Luther's Catechism" was the subject of the sermon given by the Rev. R. E. Ziesemer, pastor of Mt. Olive Lutheran church, Sunday.

"Sacrament" was the subject of the lesson-sermon Sunday at First Church of Christ.

The following passage is from "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy: "We cannot choose for ourselves, but must work out our salvation in the way Jesus taught. First in the list of Christian duties, He taught his followers the healing power of truth and love. It is the living Christ, the practical truth, which makes Jesus 'the resurrection and the life' to all who follow Him in deed."

Asks for Petitions For Curbs, Gutters

Mayor Goodland today again reminded property owners who want curbs and gutters installed on streets abutting their property to file petitions at the city clerk's office as soon as possible. The curbs and gutters will be installed under a $18,650 WPA project covering city-wide street improvements. The property owners will be charged only for part of the material used. The cost of cement and labor will be paid by WPA.

Clintonville to Seek PWA Grant For New School

Clintonville—The school board of the Clintonville city school district at the annual meeting last night was authorized to take preliminary steps to secure a PWA grant of 45 per cent for building of a new elementary school at a cost of between $200,000 and $250,000.

The action was taken following a discussion of the need for a new elementary school building to replace the present one built 50 years ago. Harley J. Powell, city school superintendent, in his annual report issued recently pointed to the need of a new building, stating that the present one is overcrowded and that annual repairs run from $1,000 to $5,000.

The new school would be built just west of the present high school building and the old grade school would have to be torn down. It was proposed that an enlarged gymnasium and auditorium be built to connect to the elementary and high school buildings and that the present high school auditorium and gymnasium be turned over for use as class rooms. The new building would be similar in design to the high school.

Max Stied was reelected treasurer of the board for a 3-year term and Dr. J. H. Murphy and G. A. Jesse as board members for 2-year terms. Clarence Zachow, John Tanly and S. H. Sanford were reelected to the auditing committee. It was voted to raise $10,500 through taxation for the district budget.

Painters Urged to Study Provisions of State Law

Delegates to the recent conference of Wisconsin journeymen painters at LaCrosse were advised to encourage the study of the Wisconsin law affecting them, according to a report on the conference made by John Streur, president of the Appleton union, before the local last night at the Trades and Labor hall.

Painters also were urged at the conference to report any violation of the law, particularly in regard to licensing, to their regional committees. Streur told the union members.

State and County Officers Sniff for Elusive Odor

An investigation of the cause of sewage odors in the vicinity of the subway on E. Wisconsin avenue and south near Bellaire court ravine was launched yesterday by T. F. Wisniewski, a representative of the sanitary engineering department of the state board of health.

The odor in question, against which many complaints have been filed with city officials and the board of health, seems to be a fugitive from justice. That is, no one seems to know for certain just where it originates or why it disappears when it does for the odor sometimes plainly in evidence even to noses not so fussy while at other times the most sensitive nostrils can't raise a smell.

City officials have been sniffing for its source for years, according to Mayor Goodland, who said he has been getting complaints for the last 10 years. Several weeks ago, Claude X. Greisch, deputy health officer, and Alfred Wiekensberg, city engineer, started at the subway and traced a storm sewer which drains into Bellaire court ravine and then into the river. The pair couldn't smell a thing and even were beginning to doubt the rumors.

The men suggested maybe it would be a good idea to mix up a truck load of concrete and dump it into the storm sewer which seems to be the cause of all the trouble. It also has been suggested that a good steady stream of whater from a fire hose would stir up what ever is causing the odor and perhaps eliminate it.

Mr. Wisniewski checked the complaints a year ago and failed to find the source of the odor, he said yesterday. However, he arrived in Appleton during a rainy season. He believes the odor disappears when it rains and re-appears during dry weather. The state health officer is checking possible causes with Grand Chute officials today.

Mrs. Walter Kriek, 622 N. Sampson street, and her sons, Gilbert, Kenrit and Karlon, attended the Chicago Fur Style show Sunday and Monday.

Oneidas Get Land Under Rehabilitation Program

Oneida—(AP)—They are giving the land along the Ta-Lon-ga-way-nay river back to the Indians.

Under a new federal rehabilitation program, the fertile valley that once was the Oneida reservation is being restored as an Indian agricultural community.

The program is just getting under way, directors of the program point out, and results do not show up much yet, but in a few years it is hoped to make every Indian in the community self-sustaining.

For many years hundreds of Oneida Indians lived in one-room far-paired shacks, eating out of a bare existence by growing vegetables in small gardens and getting occasional work in nearby Green Bay. In some of the shacks there were as many as ten people, living, eating and sleeping in one room.

Some of these shacks are being torn down, and in their places are arising modern farm homes. Farms that long have been overgrown with weeds are being cleared and tilled.

Eighteen Persons In Primary Race For County Jobs

Nomination Papers for September Election
Due Aug. 9

With Aug. 9 as the deadline for filing nomination papers for county offices in the primary election in September, prospective candidates to date have been reluctant in taking out papers. Only eighteen persons have secured nomination papers, but the list is expected to grow rapidly as the deadline nears.

At the present time most interest seems to be centered about the post of district attorney with three candidates now in the field. Raymond P. Dohr, present district attorney, will be seeking reelection for the office on the Democratic ticket. The two attorneys who will seek nomination on the Republican ticket are William L. Crowe, and Adrian E. Gerrits.

Three candidates also have declared intentions to seek the office of sheriff. They are John Lappen, present sheriff and a Republican, Joseph W. Versteegen, Democrat and a former undersheriff, and Eddie C. Wolff, Republican.

Men from Hortonville, Kaukauna and Little Chute have entered the race for register of deeds. Arthur L. Collar, present office holder, will seek reelection on the Democratic ticket. Others in the race are Edward F. Renniecke, Republican, Kaukauna and Stephen M. Peeters, Republican, Little Chute.

Unopposed
Miss Marie Ziegler, Republican county treasurer, will seek reelection and is the only person in the field for that office at present. John E. Hantschel, Republican county clerk, also will seek reelection and is unopposed at the present time.

Two Republicans, Mark Catlin, Jr., and John E. Doherty will seek nomination for the office of assessor. Catlin is the incumbent. In the Second district William Rohan will seek reelection on the Democratic ticket. Arthur Hoolihan also will seek the office on the Union party ticket.

Sydney M. Shannon, Republican, will seek reelection as clerk of courts and he is still alone in the field. Dr. H. E. Ellsworth will seek reelection as county coroner on the Republican ticket. No opposition has yet appeared for the office. Robert M. Connelly also is alone in the field for reelection as county surveyor on the Democratic ticket.

Nomination papers must be filed with the county clerk.

Clerk Receives Three Applications for Job

Reicher, city clerk. Those who filed applications are Thomas J. Arbogast, 1015 W. Spencer street; Peter N. Diny, 419 S. State street, and Carl Smith, 512 N. Appleton street.

APPLETON HIGH SCHOOL STUDENT HAS HER OWN MUSEUM

Collector of Indian relics, fossils, rocks, mosses and practically anything old and interesting she can get, Nan Getschow, 10 Brookaw place, is shown here cataloging an old German stein which is part of her small museum collection. Some of the other articles she has gathered, Franco-Prussian war sabers, a mustache cup, sea shells, an old fan and a goat skull, are grouped on the table in front of her. (Post-Crescent Photo)

Cavalry Sabers, Goat Skull, Mustache Cup In Museum Collection of Appleton Girl

In a little room on the second floor of the R. W. Getschow home, 10 Brookaw place, are cavalry sabers which saw service in the Franco-Prussian war, a goat skull found at High Cliff, an old mustache cup that belonged to Judge F. V. Hennemann's father, sea shells from Florida, rocks from the Black Hills and a crab preserved in formaldehyde, to mention only a small part of the miscellany which fills the shelves, boxes and walls.

Ruler of this heterogeneous domain is 16-year-old Nan Getschow, daughter of the R. W. Getschow, whose hobby is natural history and whose favorite vocation is that of a museum curator. She will be a senior at Appleton High school in the fall.

Ever since she was a little girl she has been collecting rocks and when she began going through her relatives' attics—with their permission—they saw that she was in earnest about this collecting business and began to send her old and interesting articles they found.

She has interested her friends in the hobby, too, and they bring her everything from fossils to snakes. The newest addition to her collection is a 5-foot pine snake skin and two smaller snake skins given to her by a friend who found them near the Boy Scout camp at Gardner Dam. Ardent collector though she is, Miss Getschow gave proof of her femininity when she admitted that she hoped to have the larger skin made into a belt rather than to let it hang on the wall for future generations to see.

Old Vacuum Cleaner
She is especially fond of an old vacuum cleaner, dated March, 1907, that stands in a corner of the small room which houses her museum. It looks like a plain old-fashioned carpet sweeper, but inside is a vacuum apparatus.

On the shelves in the room are coins from various countries, bullets from the Civil and Spanish-American wars, a fan about 45 years old, two enormous women's hats that were probably the height of fashion several decades ago, jaw bones of horses and rodents, an assortment of bugs and butterflies, an apple preserved with cloves, made many years ago by her grandmother, Mrs. Robert Deiber of Green Bay, and an old typewriter, patented in 1912, which came from her aunt, Mrs. Ned Stanton.

A project which should keep the young collector busy all summer is one which she recently began. She plans to mount on a wooden background five specimens, the wood, bark, fruit, twig and leaf, of each different kind of tree she can find. She already has specimens of 30 different kinds of wood.

What she likes about her museum, Miss Getschow says, is that many of the things have been christened with pet names, most of them bestowed by the persons who gave her the articles. For instance, when the goat skull found at High Cliff was presented to her, the donor gave it to her as Baldy, a name by which it has been affectionately known ever since, and the typewriter, for some reason or another, has come to be called Zachariah. Unlike the cold, statistical atmosphere of formal museums, Miss Getschow's is definitely warm and friendly.

Bands, Floats to Parade With Historical Pageant

New London—A parade of floats such as New London hasn't seen in years is promised by the New London Chamber of Commerce in conjunction with the appearance of the Northwest Territory pageant here July 22. Financial support of the project was assured at the last meeting of the group.

At least five bands will be included in the parade according to plans of Harold Helms, superintendent of schools and parade chairman. Neighboring towns have signified their willingness to enter a float and most New London industries have promised to prepare one. The American Legion auxiliary already is at work preparing one for the group.

While the parade will be historical in character, commercial floats will not be barred if they conform to the general theme and depict the foundation, growth or progress of a local institution. It is expected from 40 to 50 pieces will be assembled.

The 36 young men comprising the Northwest Territory celebration are to take part in the parade and present their show at the city athletic park in the evening. Admission will be free but a small charge will be made for reserved seats.

Since the pageant reached its historic destination in Ohio, the troupe has been traveling by truck in order to fulfill its schedule on numerous appearances in crossing the continent. However the party dismounts outside each city and enters and leaves on foot in the frontier manner.

Relief Expenses Decline in June

New London Outlay for Month Is $800 Under Figure for May

New London — Relieve expenditures returned to near normal during the month of June with a decrease of about $800 under the amount spent in May, according to the report of the city relief department issued yesterday. The case load returned to 97 from 105.

A drop of $300 in the grocery bill and $300 less for medical care and hospitalization accounted for most of the change. Fuel dropped about $150 and clothing $40.

Total costs for the year July 1, 1937, to July 1, 1938, marking a year since the reorganization of the relief department, showed an expenditure of $2,700 less than the same period a year before despite worse conditions in the city. Local costs for last month were approximately $100 less than June, 1937.

Three Teams Tie For Top Place in Industrial League

Local 1107 Forfeits Game To Plywood: Playoff Stated for Saturday

New London — The first half championship of the City Industrial Softball league went into a 3-way tie last evening when Local 1107 forfeited a postponed game to the Plywood, leaving Gambles, the Mystery Boys and the Plywood knotted with four wins apiece. A play-off is planned for Saturday afternoon.

Gambles started off the second half race with a close win over the Mystery Boys, 5 to 4. The winners got only one hit, and that a home run by Will Cornell in the fifth, but tallied on 10 walks off pitcher Anton Herres. With six hits off Ullrich to their credit, the boys were ahead 4 to 0 in the fourth inning and still lead 4 to 2 until the last.

Three walks in a row filled the bases in the seventh and then the runners began to score on successful plays before three were put out. "The boys failed to come back in the last of the seventh when two fanned and another grounded to third base. In the third, Anton Herres clouted a home run with the bases empty. Junior Prahl, Ray Smith, and Eugene Eggers got doubles and Prahl and Charles Gruentzel singled.

Wednesday night the Plywood play the K.C.'s. This evening in the Senior Men's league the Methodist Men meet the Mission and the two Lutheran teams clash.

Popularity of Wolf River In New London Area Increasing

New London — Boating on the Wolf river this season is more popular than ever before, according to members of the New London Boat club. Since dredging operations were completed last year, many large cabin cruisers that could not navigate the river this far before have visited New London this summer.

The largest boat to dock here so far is that of Dr. A. L. Koch of Appleton who came up river during the July Fourth holiday. One large boat from Fond du Lac stopped here recently on a 3-weeks cruise from Lake Michigan and other waters. Other craft have visited here briefly.

The level of the water this year is more favorable than most years. The average water level has been three feet above that of last year, providing ample depth in mid-stream for the largest boats. The Fox River Valley Boat club is reported planning a cruise to New London sometime in August.

The New London club is looking forward to its annual cruise to the Fremont Water carnival Aug. 6 and plans are being made to enter a float in the street parade of the Labor Day celebration here Sept. 3, 4 and 5. The group is considering an overnight cruise, possibly sometime this week.

The boat house and landing constructed by Lex Frank at the rear of his home at 718 N. Water street is one of the neatest and convenient docking points on the river and has become a favorite haunt for all members of the club. Frank's dock is complete, even to the flagpole.

Millionaire Hughes Flies as He Pleases But He Comes Back With Scientific Facts

BY DEVON FRANCIS

New York — (AP) — If thin, wiry Howard Robard Hughes, the millionaire now turned transatlantic flier, gives a tinker's dam about what other people think of him, he has never shown it during his 34 years.

Hughes announced he was going to fly the Atlantic. Why, was his business. A few years ago he was making hit movies. He abandoned Hollywood. That was his business, too.

A year ago last January he streaked across the United States to set a new speed record which has never been approached—7 hours, 28 minutes. Crawling from his ship, he was courteous, tolerant, uninformative.

He merely wanted to do it. If a man wanted to risk a neck valued at several millions, it was his affair.

He Took It Up

His few intimates deny he is a blue chip playboy. Whatever he is, he does what pleases his fancy with a courage and energy which set him apart.

"Better let someone else take that plane up," Dick Palmer, who built his "Hughes special" racer, advised the flier in 1936.

"No," responded Hughes. "I had confidence enough in you to have you build it. I have enough confidence that it will fly."

He took it up on its first test hop, and then smashed all long-distance records at an average pace of 332 miles an hour.

Bit Oxygen Hose

Temperamentally nervous, Hughes is stone-like in the cockpit of a racing airplane. On his transcontinental record flight, he almost lost consciousness at an altitude of 22,000 feet when a special oxygen face mask failed to function.

He calmly bit in two the rubber hose leading to his oxygen tank and sucked on the gas until his head was clear.

On another occasion, when a severe downdraft dropped his plane dangerously close to some mountains near Los Angeles, he maneuvered toward a lake to pick up smoother air.

"Hope I didn't scare you," he remarked casually to a friend in the cabin behind him.

The Hughes fortune largely was due to his father's invention of a rotary drill bit for sinking oil wells. The elder Hughes founded the Hughes Tool Co., in Houston, of which the son is board chairman.

Born rich, Hughes followed his father's technical bent. At the age of 12 he had constructed his own radio receiving set. The Hughes home-made automobile was a common sight in Houston. At 15 he had taken his first flight. In his twenties, he established himself as one of Hollywood's foremost movie producers.

He made money. Among his pictures, "Hell's Angels," "Scarface," and "The Front Page" helped make movie history.

Keeps Full Logs

Like his father, Hughes is attracted by anything scientific. When he flies, he works every minute. His

Illinois Boy Runs Away From Camp but Enjoys New London Police, Firemen

New London—The New London police department had its own problem child yesterday when 11-year-old Harley Scott, son of Mr. and Mrs. Jess Scott, Libertyville, Ill., stopped here Sunday night looking for a place to sleep. He was running away from a boys camp on Mosquito lake in Langlade county in Northern Wisconsin and hitchhiking his way home to his parents. About 5:30 last evening, on order of his parents, camp authorities came from up north to take the lad back.

The boy sought shelter for the night from Matt Nesbitt, city hall janitor and engineer fireman, about 5 o'clock Sunday evening and was put to bed. Monday morning the boy told police he didn't like the camp and wanted to go home. He said he'd run away again if he was sent back.

Railroad tickets for home were purchased and the boy was as far as Appleton to make train connections when the sheriff's office finally contacted the parents and received an order to the contrary.

While a guest of the city the adventurous youth examined the fire department and city hall building thoroughly and in the afternoon was taken in hand by Motorcycle Officer Lawrence Schetter who bought him ice cream cones and showed him the sights of the city.

Crops Damaged By Heavy Rains

Much Grain in Fremont Area Flattened by Wind and Rain

Fremont — Recent heavy rains have caused considerable damage to farm crops in this territory. Barley and oats suffered considerably in many communities in this section.

Most of this grain is now so far advanced that it will not raise up, and most of it probably will be cut with mowers. Some of it may be cut for hay but much will probably be threshed without binding.

Corn and potatoes are growing well, but the heavy rainfall has made it difficult to cultivate regularly. However, an excellent crop is anticipated.

County and state conservation reports will be heard Thursday evening at the monthly meeting of the Fremont Conservation league to be held at the Fremont village hall.

A party by members of Wolf River Post No. 391 of the American Legion will be given Thursday evening at Sader's cottage at Ori-hula.

Mrs. Hulda Eklund, Los Angeles, Calif., arrived Saturday to spend several months with her brothers, Henry and Arthur Schwartz, and families, and sisters, Mrs. John Dews and family and Mrs. H. G. Zuehlke. Mrs. Eklund last visited here 14 years ago.

Mr. and Mrs. Van Fudenberg of Coeur d'Alene, Idaho, are guests with Mr. and Mrs. Fred Sasse and other relatives.

Miss Elmore Kane, Fulton, Ill., is a guest at the home of Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Peters.

Auxiliary Members and Children Attend Picnic

Hortonville — Members of the American Legion auxiliary and their children enjoyed a picnic Monday at Dyne's Country club. Those present were Mrs. Ella Krueger and two children, Mrs. Esther Hertel and daughter, Mrs. Lulu Buchman and daughter, Mrs. Rena Much, Mrs. Theda Lathrop, Mrs. Laura Otis and daughter, Mrs. Florence Hammond, Mrs. Olga Riedl and two children and Mrs. Gladys Collar and two children. Mrs. A. Smith and two daughters of Oshkosh were guests. Dinner and supper were served.

It was voted at the meeting that the auxiliary would hold another picnic in August at Duck Inn park. Mrs. Esther Hertel, Auxiliary president, appointed Lulu Buchman Olga Riedl and Ella Krueger as a committee to plan for the picnic and set the date.

Mrs. D. A. Mathewson visited friends in Minneapolis from Thursday until Sunday. She returned to her home Sunday accompanied by Joyce Platten of Minneapolis, who will spend some time at the Mathewson home.

Flying Blind

In thick weather, it is often necessary for airplanes to "fly blind" ... to depend on instruments rather than vision and charted landmarks. Almost uncanny in their accuracy, such instruments are nevertheless second choice in the navigation of the air.

Shoppers who trot off down-town to the stores without first consulting the advertisements of those same stores are likewise flying blind. And needlessly, so. The advertisements in this paper are put here for your guidance, for your safe landing in the Ports of Value.

Study them in the comfort of your home ... map your course before you put on your hat and drop the latch-key into your handbag. Compare the products offered, their prices, their general advantages. Then set out on your shopping-trip prepared for what you will see, what you will wish to have sent home.

Let the advertisements serve as guiding beacons of buying. It's the smart thing to do.

The MILWAUKEE ROAD

"Nevertheless" Is New Word Placed On Political Map

Will Come in Handy If Roosevelt Seeks Third Term, Lawrence Says

BY DAVID LAWRENCE
Washington—President Roosevelt has put the little word "nevertheless" on the political map for future use by the "head of the Democratic party." It will come in handy if and when Mr. Roosevelt decides to run for a third term. The argument made last week to help Senator Barkley of Kentucky win a third term in the senate would have to be changed very little to make it fit a Franklin Roosevelt concept of why the electorate should give third terms. Thus slightly paraphrased, Mr. Roosevelt can say of himself, as he did of Senator Barkley:

"I am not interested in any shape manner or form in personal ambition. You have the absolute right to vote for any candidate in accordance with the dictates of your conscience. No outside source ought to drag on you.

"Nevertheless, I have a clear right to tell you certain facts. The job of the presidency is a very exacting one and it includes a study of many, many aspects of national problems in which a man's experience in office naturally counts a great deal. It would take a new man many, many years to match the national knowledge, the experience and familiarity with the affairs of the nation which comes to one who has been, as I have been, so intimately related to these problems for the last eight years."

Third Term
It is true the third term tradition has been against third term presidents, but Mr. Roosevelt, after reciting all the reasons, says: "Nevertheless, experience is the important thing, and if third terms are desirable for members of congress, why are they undesirable for presidents?"

To all this it may again be objected, that if experience in office makes a better president, then Herbert Hoover, who went through the worst years of the depression, might have been given another chance. To counter an argument, Mr. Roosevelt might answer:

"It is true that other presidents with four and even eight years of experience have not been able to persuade the people that a new man would take a long time to get familiar with the details of the presidential job.

"Nevertheless, these are exceptional times and one who has been through the mill, as I have been, has had a new set of problems to meet. The problems of other presidents were different. As I said in my speech at Covington, Kentucky, on July 8, 1938—"at this stage of world and domestic issues, leadership is important to the people of the whole country as well as to the people of each state."

It is easy to see how handy the word "nevertheless" is going to be in Mr. Roosevelt's political vocabulary. He has, of course, applied it to explain away the huge debt. He always refers to the debt and deficits by something substantially as follows:

Measuring Values
"Nevertheless, the values should not be measured in dollars and cents, but in human terms. It's the human balance sheet that counts."

Some day, Mr. Average citizen, who has piled up a debt in his business, may try out the device on his creditors, saying something like this:

"It's true I owe you a lot of money and it's true I am not altogether sure when I can begin to pay you back. It's true that there has been some waste and inefficiency, but, on the whole, a lot of good persons have received the money in the form of payroll or in purchases of their goods. This business has been a benefit to the community. I know it is insolvent and does not make ends meet.

"Nevertheless, I think you should keep on lending money to this business and you should not be concerned over the money already borrowed which we have to earn some day to pay you back. You should consider the human value, and, as for your bank depositors whose money has been loaned—why, tell them to look at the human balance sheet. That ought to satisfy them."

There's another possible use of the word "nevertheless." If Mr. Roosevelt happens to be planning any announcement about how to fill the vacancy left in the supreme court by the death of Justice Brandeis, many candidates have been mentioned from various geographical areas of the country.

Sherman Minton
"Nevertheless," Mr. Roosevelt might say, "there's one man who logically deserves the position. He has served well and ably on the senate lobby committee, of which he has been chairman. The vacancy whereby he became chairman occurred when I elevated to the supreme bench Senator Hugo Black of Alabama. The lobby committee from which attacks on a free press can so readily be directed, eminently the proper place to look for a candidate for the highest court in the land. And besides it would take a new justice of the supreme court many, many years to match the knowledge and experience in the affairs of our nation and the 'liberal outlook' gained on the lobby committee by that son of Indiana of whom the whole nation is proud, Sherman Minton."

There are other uses for the word "nevertheless" but Mr. Roosevelt has no doubt thought of them, including the possibility that some people will remind him of the long experience in public affairs of Senators George of Georgia, Ellison Smith of South Carolina and Mildred Tydings of Maryland.

"Nevertheless," Mr. Roosevelt

SWIMMERS BASK IN SUMMER SUNSHINE NEAR QUARRY'S EDGE.

A glorified old swimming hole is the quarry at Kaukauna which attracts as many as 1,000 swimmers a day, some from as far as Oshkosh and Green Bay. The above picture shows a group of the swimmers clustered on the rocks at the quarry's edge, enjoying the summer sunshine. The quarry is 200 yards long and 100 yards wide. (Post-Crescent photo.)

Board of Public Works Will Study Garbage Disposal

Experiment to Determine Capacity of Sewage Plant May Be Made

Kaukauna — The board of public works will study the question of a city system of garbage disposal at its next meeting, Aug. 1. The problem was referred to the board at the last meeting of the common council.

Kaukauna residents now dispose of their garbage in several ways, some burning it in containers which have been complained about for their odor and smoke. Dr. C. D. Boyd, city health officer, said that he received some sort of complaint almost every day in regard to the garbage question. Dr. Boyd appeared before the council to ask that some kind of arrangements be made for a uniform system of disposal.

Opinions Differ
The board of public works will have to decide whether the equipment at the municipal sewage disposal plant is competent to handle garbage collections if the city did undertake to gather the garbage. T. L. Seggelink, chairman of the council sewer committee, expressed the opinion that the plant was not well enough equipped to handle garbage with summer weather, while Lester J. Brenzel, city clerk, said the sewage plant engineer had given him the impression it could be done.

Alderman Oscar Alger suggested the only way to find out was to give it a trial, and this the board may decide to do. It was Alger's suggestion to take one ward for experiment, collect garbage from uniform cans—no bottles or cans allowed—and treat it at the sewage plant to see how things worked out. Charges to cover expenses might be made, according to Alger's suggestion.

Old Kaukauna Quarry Has Become Mecca for as Many As 1,000 Swimmers a Day

Kaukauna — According to dad, or even grandfather, there's never been anything like the old swimming hole that saw them while away July and August day, not to mention a few while school was still in session. But let them knock off work a hour early some day and stroll down to the Kaukauna quarry and see what a real swimming hole looks like. Some two hundred yards long and half as wide, the cavity left after years of blasting is now the mecca of as many as 1,000 swimmers a day. Its fame has spread beyond here, and cars from as far as Oshkosh and Green Bay have stopped by its edge to disgorge gangs of would-be Weissmullers.

The east end of the quarry narrows to a point, with shallow water for children and those learning to swim. In the middle of the south side an abandoned pump-house, about 12 feet above the water, is used as a diving board by the more daring of the swimmers. Alongside it is a 3-foot board for those who like to hit the water a little sooner after jumping. A ladder enabled swimmers to climb to the top of the small stone building right out of the water, while girls use the structure for a dressing room.

Raft in Center
The latest addition to the quarry is a twenty by twenty raft anchored in the middle. Inner tubes looking as if they might have come from anything from a bicycle tire to a truck tire are owned by many. There have been no serious accidents there since supervised swimming was begun. Under the eye of the public health and education committee of the council three life guards are on duty, the number varying according to the time of day and the attendance.

A guard goes on duty at 9 o'clock every morning, and one or more at watching until 9 o'clock that evening. Two guards are on duty from one in the afternoon until eight at night.

Thirty-foot high cliffs surmount the quarry's west end, but no divers are allowed to jump from these. None are allowed to attempt to swim the length or breadth of the pool, and are kept as much as possible in one group. The life guards are provided with first aid kits for emergencies.

Submits Revised PWA Paving Plans To Chicago Office

Wickesberg Says Project May Go To Washington This Week

Revised plans for Appleton's $451,000 city-wide street paving program yesterday were submitted at the Chicago office of PWA Monday by Alfred Wickesberg, city engineer.

Wickesberg said today he expects the project will be sent to government officials at Washington this week. He said WPA engineers commended Appleton officials for detailed and complete plans submitted.

The revised plans include surfacing of one street and part of another with 37-foot pavements, seven streets with 28-foot pavements. Clark street will be surfaced with a 28-foot pavement part of the way and with a 19-foot pavement from Roosevelt to Commercial street.

The sum of $82,769 has been earmarked to finance the city's share of the project if the grant is approved by PWA. If it is approved, the city eventually will have to borrow $248,309 to finance the property holders' share. About two-thirds of the money will be returned to the city by property owners on the various streets to be paved.

Assessments and damages will be determined before contracts are awarded and the tax assessments will be used as collateral at the banks.

Reopen Probe of Cradle Phone Cost

Commission Hears Attorneys Argue Proposed Drop of 8-Cent Charge

Madison—(P)—The Public Service commission, which is inquiring into the feasibility of Appleton's monthly charge of eight cents on cradle or handset phones, re-opened its investigation today, taking testimony from commission accountants and engineers who claimed the charge could be abandoned.

Last week, the company said it could not "afford" to lose $100,000 in revenue involved.

A. C. Colbert, commission accountant, testified the company was finally able to eliminate the charge and that "it has sufficient reserves to retire all desk set phones tomorrow if necessary."

Frederic Sammond, of Milwaukee, company counsel, objected to Colbert's statement on the ground that his conclusions were "highly questionable," and that "a week would be required to thoroughly check" the basis for his deductions.

E. W. Morehouse, chief of the commission's rates and research department, testified Georgia and Missouri will abandon the extra charges on cradle phones early next year.

Sammond replied that he believed Wisconsin was the only state which refunded its service or installation charge after two years.

Senator Says New Public Attitude Benefits Inquiry

Washington—(P)—Senator O'Mahoney (D-Wyo.) said today that the administration's monopoly inquiry had benefited from a new public attitude toward business and states' rights.

The chairman of the committee making the $500,000 investigation told reporters there was a good chance of revising anti-trust laws because of this change of sentiment.

Acknowledging that a half century of intermittent war on trusts had not produced a remedy, O'Mahoney said:

"Always before there has been the tendency to destroy states' rights. Senators and congressmen resist proposals because of that. Their failure to act was just a specific for destroying states' right. Everybody realizes it now."

"Business has grown until state lines have been annihilated. We must deal with it on a national basis as the only way of preserving independent or free local action."

O'Mahoney and Senator Borah (R-Idaho) have advocated federal charting of corporations doing interstate business. States now issue these charters.

O'Mahoney declared, however, that the monopoly inquiry would not be utilized to push their bill, adding that he was "willing to throw it out the window if some better plan comes along."

Hits at New Deal Planned Scarcity

U. W. Dean Says Wallace's Remedy Would be 'Worse Than Disease'

Pullman, Wash.—(P)—A warning was directed to American farmers yesterday by Dean Chris L. Christensen of Wisconsin College of Agriculture that the government's program for increasing farm income through planned scarcity would inevitably lower the country's standard of living.

Dean Christensen told farm cooperative leaders, educators and officials from near every state, that the "remedy" of Henry A. Wallace, secretary of agriculture, would be worse than the disease. He addressed the 14th annual meeting of the American Institute of Cooperation.

"No amount of argument will conceal the fact that in order to consume we must produce," he said. "Reduced production inevitably means reduced consumption; reduced consumption inevitably means a lower national standard of living."

"History indicates that increased income on the part of any large segment of the population has always been the result of increased production. Increased farm income under a system of restricted production can be maintained only by means of heavy government subsidies. A subsidy conferred on the economic class usually means burdens to other classes. Additional subsidies are required to offset these disadvantages and soon the remedy is worse than the disease."

In the field of assistance to farm income, Dean Christensen suggested that both government and cooperatives to seek, was increased industrial production to meet farm production, rather than decreased farm output to equal industrial inertia.

WINS ROD, REEL IN FISHING CONTEST

Admiring his new rod and reel, which he received for catching the biggest fish while fishing with his dad during the Appleton Post-Crescent Dad and Son Fishing Week, is Clarence Meltz, Jr., 8-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Meltz, Sr., 101 N. Morrison street. On the right is E. L. Biselex, editorial staff member in charge of the contest. Clarence was so excited when the picture was taken that he forgot to hold up the pure silk line he received along with the rod and reel. The rod was given away by the Post-Crescent and the reel and line were given by the Appleton Chapter of the Isaak Walton League. Clarence caught a pickerel which tipped the scales at 4 pounds and 9 ounces at Lake Butte des Morts June 26, the first day of the contest.

Clarence Meltz Wins Dad, Son Fishing Week Contest

BY E. L. BISELEX

The thrill of hooking a pickerel weighing 4 pounds and 9 ounces was second only to the thrill of receiving the prize for catching the biggest fish for Clarence Meltz, Jr., 8-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Meltz, Sr., 101 N. Morrison street, winner of the Appleton Post-Crescent Dad and Son Fishing Week contest.

And why not? You can catch a pickerel almost any old day, Clarence says, but it isn't very often you can get a dandy rod, reel and line for doing it. Clarence caught his fish the first day of the contest, June 26, at Lake Butte des Morts near Stroeb's Island.

However, catching fish is old stuff to Clarence who is a veteran of more than 11 years. He goes fishing every Sunday with his dad and last Sunday caught another pickerel almost as big as the one entered in the contest. He doesn't know if he will use his new equipment or not. He says maybe when he's big enough to cast. But right now, he likes his cane pole, the one he caught the big fish with, he says.

Originate Here

The fishing week idea was born in Appleton and was the brain child of R. L. Swanson, president of the Appleton chapter of the Isaak Walton League. This is the first year the idea was tried and is the only contest of its kind ever to be sponsored by any newspaper, to our knowledge. If the idea catches on, fishing weeks may be sponsored every year all over the country for this year the idea was endorsed by the state conservation department which set the week of June 26 as Dad and Son Fishing Week in Wisconsin.

A Kimberly boy, John Gerard, really caught the largest fish, a walleyed pike weighing 36 pounds and eight ounces, but he caught it on July 9, five days after the contest ended. Maybe John will have better luck next year.

The second largest fish entered was caught by Albert Schroeder, 11, Kimberly, in Lake Winnebago. It was a pike weighing three pounds and eight ounces. Emil Bohatschek, 16, 501 Telahia avenue, hooked a bass weighing two pounds, eleven ounces at Lake Poygan and Tom Teel, 48 Bellaire street, caught a pike which tipped the scales at two pounds and six ounces. Albert Schroeder also entered a pike weighing two pounds, eleven ounces.

The Post-Crescent gave the rod and the Isaak Walton League gave the reel and line.

Madison—(P)—A petition for reorganization of the Continental Service Co., affiliate of the defunct E. E. Buckman and Company, was dismissed today by Federal Judge Patrick T. Stone.

Stockholders have since reorganized the firm and named a new board of directors. Judge Stone approved the program, but declined at that time to relinquish supervision.

Doctor Takes Own Life When He Feels 'Even Surgery Is Slipping'

San Rafael, Calif.—(P)—A small town doctor, missing from his southern California home for more than a week, told today in a 3,000-word journal of how he turned from life, with its bitter endurance, to death, which he hailed as "an old friend."

The body of Dr. Joseph M. Swindt, 32, Chino and Pomona, Calif., physician and surgeon, was found yesterday in an inn at Olema on the Marin county coast. Corner J. Ray Keaton said Doctor Swindt had been dead three days, of self-administered poison.

The doctor's journal, released by the coroner, explained:

"This is no rash act done on the spur of the moment, but a cool, collected deed resulting from months of thought."

On a separate sheet of paper he left a list of 20 names, headed by those of his widow, Janette, and two young sons, whom he directed to read his thesis on death.

"All those who argue against suicide," wrote Dr. Swindt, "are for continuing the practice of mayhem and murder among my trusting patients in China. Even my surgery is slipping. Of course, I am wrecking the lives of my wife and two children, but are these lives more sacred than the lives of the countless on whom I did not even make the correct diagnosis?"

"No!"

Dr. Swindt's opinion of his own professional abilities was disputed by a prominent San Francisco surgeon with whom Dr. Swindt worked at San Francisco hospital during his four years of training there. This surgeon remembered the youthful physician as "capable, high-minded, kind, gentle."

Appleton Boy Scouts Fish For Their Meal--and Get It

BY BILL SPENGLER

Gardner Dam — The largest attended opening week in the history of this camp began Sunday afternoon, when 90 scouts from Appleton, Brillion, Hortonville, Menasha, and Seymour began a week's stay here.

Scouts from the Appleton Troop 8 arrived Saturday afternoon and prepared their own meals, two of which consisted of fish caught by the boys.

On Sunday a constant stream of scouts appeared before Neil McCarty, camp clerk, Bob Airis, director of scoutcraft, and Dr. R. W. Hausman, the camp physician, to be registered and examined.

After being located in their cabins, the campers who arrived before dinner quickly engrossed themselves in some of the many camp activities such as cavorting in the swimming hole, fishing from the dock, climbing the lookout tower or hiking in the woods. Dinner was served to a full mess hall of 50 boys and judging by the way the food vanished, Mrs. Eileen Bordeaux, camp cook, will be in good favor. Following dinner, the scouts were allowed to roam the camp and get acquainted. The remainder of the campers were checked in during the afternoon. At supper on Sunday night the get-acquainted campfire was announced for 8 o'clock that night but an unexpected rainstorm, forced the scouts inside the lodge.

Here the campers got their first taste of real camp group singing. After every boy in camp had been introduced by real and nick names, Walter Dixon, camp director, welcomed the boys and gave them a few pointers on safety. With "taps" and the scoutmasters' benediction said in unison, the boys turned cabinward.

Chinese Retreat; Destroy Property

company of New York. American workers sank a third pontoon to save it from total loss.

While the invaders' land forces were fighting hard to advance, Japanese naval units were said to have entered the head of the large Poyang lake, 10 miles due east of Kiukiang, in the face of staunch Chinese resistance.

The Standard Oil property included three storage tanks, empty because of the inability to replenish stocks, two warehouses, extensive wharves, a manager's residence and lesser structures with an aggregate value of millions of Chinese dollars. (The Chinese dollar is valued currently at about 18 cents.)

British firms controlling extensive trading interests also were said to have protested against the Chinese destruction at Kiukiang, but the Chinese seemed determined to destroy anything of possible help to the Japanese.

(Japanese army dispatches from Peiping yesterday reported 26 Chinese divisions in South Shansi province were in full retreat toward the Yellow river, where a large concentration of tanks waited to ferry the Chinese across.)

Executors of Horlick Fortune to Claim Will

Toronto (Canadian Press)—J. Frederick Holliss, Toronto attorney, said today executors of the estate of the late Mrs. Mabelle Horlick Sidley, wealthy part-owner of the Horlick Malted Milk company at Racine, Wis., would come here to claim her will.

Mrs. Sidley died here last Wednesday and an investigation of her death, ordered by the attorney general of Ontario, now is being carried by Toronto police.

While her will was drawn up in Toronto, it was understood application for probate would be made at Racine, where the bulk of the Horlick interests are located. Holliss has not made public the names of the executors, but he said there were no Canadians among them.

He did not say when the executors would arrive here.

CANTON BOMBARDED

Canton, China—(P)—Japanese warplanes bombed this teeming metropolis twice today, scoring seven direct hits on the Wongshe station and causing 52 deaths and injuries to 200.

The raiders heavily strafed the station area and the residential district near the Sun Yat-Sen memorial this morning. Shortly after noon the air alarms shrilled again, bringing a new wave of panic while rescue squads still were picking up casualties from the first attack.

One large junk with a crew of about 30 was hit directly and disappeared in a shower of debris. Numerous small craft overturned, leaving victims struggling in the churning waters or floating, dead or stunned, on the surface.

Wongshe station was left in a chaotic condition. Tracks were twisted.

No casualties occurred inside the station but 20 were killed outright in the Wongshe district.

Neenah — Lawrence Rivets, 12-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Wilbur Rivets, 623 Van Street, Neenah, was severely injured when caught in a hay mower at 4:30 Monday afternoon on the Howard Hanson farm, two miles south of Neenah on the Dixie road.

The youngster was taken to St. Elizabeth's hospital, Appleton, for treatment. The little finger of his left hand was cut off and the tendons in the calf of his left leg also were severely cut.

The attending physician reported that the boy may lose his left hand. The youth was playing in tall grass near the mower. Running through the grass, he slipped, and the driver of the mower didn't see the boy. The youngster's left leg and arm were struck by the blades.

Post Sale Signs for Delinquent Tax Land

Neenah — Sale signs are being erected on 23 parcels of property in Neenah on which Winnebago county has taken tax deeds. It was announced today by Earl E. Fuller, county treasurer.

Land and property on which taxes have been delinquent for at least five years total 262 parcels, 196 of which are in Oshkosh, 30 in the townships, three in Menasha, three in Winnebago and two in Omro.

City properties for sale are vacant lots with only a few exceptions, while no farms or properties of substantial value or size are involved in the townships, where most of the land offered consists of marshland or undeveloped and outcrops areas scattered throughout the county. In setting the price on any piece of property, the county will not use the tax delinquency as the determining figure. Prices placed on the properties are those approved by the county board on recommendation of the appraisal committee.

Civil Case Decision Awarded to Plaintiff

Menasha — A decision for the plaintiff was handed down by Judge S. J. Luchman Monday in municipal court in the case of Quarry Products Company, Menasha, versus Menasha Lumber and Fuel company in civil action.

In the action the plaintiff sought to collect $279.95 from the defendants for merchandise sold and delivered to the company, which was upheld by the judge. A counter claim filed by the defendants was ordered dismissed by the court and judgment entered in favor of the plaintiff for the amount asked.

The Twin Cities office of the Appleton Post-Crescent for its editorial, circulation and advertising departments is located at 510 N. Commercial street and the telephone number is 4100. Permanent Committee In 'Sales Mean Jobs' Campaign Is Selected Menasha — A permanent committee in the national salesman's crusade in the "sales mean jobs" campaign has been named by E. F. Saeker and Harold Christoph as a result of a meeting Monday at the Elks club in which 30 Neenah and Menasha business men promised co-operation in the campaign.

Members of the Twin City committee are N. J. Williams, Otto Loeber, George Sande and Harold Christoph, Neenah; C. A. Looscher, W. C. Friedland, H. F. Landgraf and E. F. Saeker, Menasha.

The group expects to announce its program at a meeting at the Menasha city park within a few days. Mr. Christoph and Mr. Saeker served as chairmen of the meeting.

The crusade has been launched throughout the nation and is based on the belief that added sales will bring back employment and restore prosperity through the medium of an increased demand for manufactured articles.

Church Walls Will Be Completed Soon

Roof Level Will Be Reached Within a Week, Contractors Say

Neenah — Within a week Lannon limestone walls will have been laid to the roof level of the new $35,000 First Methodist Episcopal church which is being erected on the southwest corner of S. Commercial street and W. Doty avenue, the contractor reported today.

Heavy rains last week curtailed construction, the contractors stated, but work still is ahead of schedule. The walls of the church, which will replace the structure which was destroyed by fire last year, will be built with the exception of the tower on the W. Doty avenue side. The reason for not working on the tower this week is because the corner stone will be laid in the base of the tower during the ceremony at 4 o'clock Sunday afternoon.

Bishop J. Ralph Megee, St. Paul, Minn., and the Rev. Ira E. Schlegelhaug, Appleton, superintendent, will take part in the ceremony.

Temporary floors have been built on which seats will be placed for the spectators during the ceremony.

It Is Said--

That property owners near Laudan park, Neenah, are preparing a petition requesting that circuses be prohibited from showing in the park. The property owners are complaining that their lawns and shrubbery were damaged during the showing of the Tom Mix circus Sunday. A gavel, reinforced to stand plenty of hard knocks, came with the gong and the Lions president, O. K. New Attendance Mark for Season Reached at Beach

Neenah — A new record for the season was set Monday in the number of swimmers at the municipal bathing beach, Ole Jorgensen, director, reported today. There were more than 700 in swimming yesterday.

The previous high mark was set last Friday when 468 swimmers were counted. The attendance this season, however, has been low in comparison with other years, and since the first of July there has been only 2,300 swimmers at the beach.

Cold weather at the outset of the month and rain last week were responsible for the decline, the life guard reported. During the last week, however, the water has been especially clean and the temperature of the water has ranged around 76 degrees which is considered ideal for swimming.

The remarkable thing about this season is the dearth of rescues made. Jorgensen reported that there has been no one in trouble so far this month and only about five or six persons have needed aid since the season started. None of these rescues was serious.

The life guard was the only one on Lake Winnebago when Sunday evening's sudden storm struck. The few swimmers who were still in the water when the storm threatened were called into shore, Jorgensen went out in the life boat to the diving raft to get the life preservers. The storm struck as Jorgensen was heading for shore. Although the boat didn't capsize, it nearly filled with rain water. Jorgensen allowed the waves which rose above the pier to carry the boat to shore.

The evening campfire Sunday was held in the lodge with Walter Dixon, valley scout executive, in charge. He introduced the members of the staff and the campers were introduced by the patrol leaders. He also outlined the rules of the camp — of which there are only two. 1. Don't leave camp without permission. 2. Obey the scout oath and law.

After taps at 10 p. m. all was quiet, except for a few bombards of fire crackers — and they weren't the baby ones either. Both blamed their clocks.

Scores Socialized Medicine in Talk

Dr. A. E. Rector, Appleton, Defends Present System Before Lions

Menasha — Defending the opposition of the Wisconsin Medical society to legislation for socialized medicine in the state, Dr. A. E. Rector, Appleton, president-elect of the society, told Menasha Lions that they have to choose between being treated by federal agents whose positions are the result of politics or by their family physicians at the meeting at Hotel Menasha Monday noon.

The doctor refuted the charges that "organized medicine is selfish and out of step with the present day" by outlining some of the great work done by the Wisconsin Medical society since its organization 97 years ago. Included in its accomplishments are institutions for the insane and feeble-minded; agitation for a pure foods act; registration of births, deaths and marriages; regulation of contagious disease cases and many others.

The doctor contended that the so-called "organized medicine" is being agitated by non-residents of the state or by those who recently have adopted Wisconsin as their state. He declared that these outsiders feel that Wisconsin is an ideal proving ground which would make its citizens nothing more than rabbits.

Neenah-Menasha Lawyers Object To Second Court

Bar Association Opposes Creation of Municipal Bench in Menasha

(Post-Crescent Oshkosh Bureau)

Oshkosh — The Twin City Bar association this morning filed an objection to the creation of a municipal court in Menasha at a meeting of the Winnebago county board.

A municipal court in Menasha was suggested by Edward Sonnenbeyer, Menasha supervisor, at the last meeting of the county board who asked the district attorney to draft a resolution and to determine if the Menasha court legally could be established.

The Neenah-Menasha attorneys, in the letter to the board, explained that the new court would make too many in the county and only would add to the confusion in the clearance of justice in Winnebago county. The letter was signed by George T. Stine, vice president of the association.

The district attorney explained this morning that a preliminary resolution giving him permission to investigate would be necessary before he could draw up a resolution to create the court.

Another Menasha supervisor, Robert Heckner, moved to refer the letter to the committee on judiciary and legislation. The committee was ordered to meet with the Bar association to discuss the proposed court and report back to the board.

Taken from an 18th Century Chintz. Truly a charming English design of rose buds and tendrils painted underglaze in rose, green and yellow. Refreshingly beautiful — quite at home, in either an English or American 18th Century setting.

Hughes Lands Ship At Omisk, Halfway On World Flight

coincidence over France, compelling him to climb to 15,000 feet. "We were using oxygen tanks part of the time," he said.

Airport Prepared
The airport was all ready for the arrival. Two rooms were set aside for them, one for rest and another for eating. A meal had been ready for hours and the Russians' earnest effort to supply ice water, without which Americans say they cannot live here, kept waiters busy.

Ice cubes in water glasses on the luncheon table had been renewed no less than six times while the well-wishers awaited their guests.

A crowd of spectators jammed the dining room and watched while the fliers tried to snatch a quick lunch.

Georgi Baidukoff, one of the Russian fliers, greeted Hughes with the remark, "I'll see you in America," leading to speculation whether he was contemplating another flight soon.

Michael Gromoff and Andrei Yumoshoff, others of the polar crew, also were in the crowd.

Record Probable
Hughes, hoping to break Post's "round-the-world record" appeared well on his way toward that goal.

Post's flight to Moscow in 1933, via Berlin rather than Paris, required an elapsed time of 50 hours and 10 minutes from New York. He was in the air 35 1/2 hours, and his distance at the Moscow point was 4,933 miles.

Hughes at Moscow was 32 hours and 53 minutes out of New York, having flown 5,151 miles with a total time in the air of 24 hours and 24 minutes.

Post broke his Berlin-Moscow hop with a stop at Koenigsberg, 340 miles from Berlin and 651 from Moscow. He flew the 991 miles in two hops in 9 hours and 45 minutes.

Hughes' planned route from Moscow was 2,281 miles to Krasnoyarsk; Siberia; a 1,277 mile hop to Yakutsk; Siberia; 2,456 miles to Fairbanks, Alaska, and then 3,380 miles to New York.

Hop from Paris
Hughes lifted his plane from Le Bourget field, Paris, at 6:25 p. m. (Appleton time) Monday, (1:24 p. m. Paris time) after minor repairs to the ship.

He had flown the first leg of the world-girdling hop, from New York to Paris, in 16 hours 35 minutes to halve Colonel Charles A. Lindbergh's flight time over the same course.

There was a moderate wind and a light drizzle at the takeoff in Paris and as they neared Moscow the fliers reported having passed through heavy rain, some of it cold enough to form ice.

LeBourget officials in an automobile proceeded the ship across the field to show Hughes where to start the run, and, heading straight for the available open space between a house and a factory chimney at opposite sides of the field, he lifted the ship into the air just as its wheels hit the end of the runway, clearing the fence by a few feet.

Without returning to the airport, the plane disappeared, heading straight into the wind until sufficient altitude had been gained.

Hughes' only rest in Paris was a couple of hours spent in the apartment of the Le Bourget field commandant and, unlike his companions, he was unshaven and appeared tired.

He had spent the rest of his stay in Paris with mechanics to repair a crack in the fuselage, a damaged rudder control, and a swarled radio antenna.

7:30 a. m. — Hughes passed over Volga river about 450 miles due east of Moscow and about one-third of the distance to Omisk. The report came from M. Demchenko, Russian government liaison officer of the flight to flight headquarters at the world's fair.

Norris Wonders if War on Fascism Isn't Necessary

Waupaca — Celebrating his seventy-seventh birthday in a work shirt and overalls as he painted a garage addition on his summer home property near here, United States Senator George W. Norris (I-Neb.) paused to remark that he was looking forward to the day when the legislature would pass a law to prevent a legislator ascertained he was looking forward to problems more baffling than any he has seen in his 60 years as a public official.

Alone with Mrs. Norris, the Nebraska senator spent his birthday like other days on this island summer retreat, with no guests, no entertainment, and no party dinners to mar the solitude.

Senator Norris, however, stopped his painting long enough to tell an interviewer that the horrors of the wars in China and Spain made him wonder if it "wouldn't be better for America and perhaps France, Great Britain and Russia to ally themselves now in a world war to wipe out fascism."

Fascism Threat Grows
"Although I could never favor voting to put this country to war again on a foreign field," said Norris, "20 or 30 years from now when a younger generation of Americans is fighting a world union of fascist nations, resisting a fascist wave of aggression against us, those Americans of that day may wish we had defeated fascism in its infancy."

Turning his thoughts to unemployment, the senator said: "These work projects and public employments were necessary. I voted for them, but we can't continue this sort of thing forever. We must seek some other remedy. Before the NRA, the senate judiciary committee of which I was chairman had lengthy hearings considering a limitation of hours bill. It passed the senate, went to the house, seemed well on the way to passage when it was defeated. Then came the NRA and you know what happened to that."

STRIKE CONCLUDED

Madison — (U) — A six month old strike at the Madison Packing company ended today after the signing of a contract between the company and the A. F. of L. Meat Cutters union. The contract provides for employment of the strikers without discrimination and recognition of the union as a sole bargaining agent.

Sandblasting Ruins Noble Art of Chiseling

Chicago — (U) — The president of a national stone cutters' union—who wouldn't chisel even a little publicly by permitting use of his name—complains that sand blasting machinery has played havoc with the ancient hand-art of carving tombstones.

"Modern methods have ruined us," he says. "Twenty-five years ago we had 35,000 members in our union. Today we have 5,000 and even they are not carving fancy angles and doves on the stones any more."

"People want things fast and plain today and sand blasting gives it to them that way. All workmen have to do is outline a name with rubber composition, turn on the blaster and the job is done in a few minutes."

"That's all right but I'll lay you 10 to 1 they didn't cut out this Venus di Milo with a sand blaster, did they?"

MacKenzie Says Larger Public Areas Needed for State Hunting and Fishing

Madison — (U) — The increasing use of "no trespass" signs by Wisconsin landowners was cited today by H. W. MacKenzie, director of the state conservation department, as a challenge that must be met with sympathy by sportsmen.

He spoke at the annual two-day state-wide conservation committee meeting at which about 300 members of county delegations and wardens will collaborate with the commission staff in drafting regulations for hunting and fishing.

MacKenzie said the sportsmen's program had reached a cross road, a point at which hunters and fishermen must take steps to set aside large public areas for the enjoyment of their sports.

"The eventual solution will be state control of a cooperative program," he said. "Such a program will have to be worked out at the 1939 session of the legislature, or we will have another two year delay."

The director said the conservation department was embarked on "a tremendous program of production having planted over 1,000,000,000 fish for the second consecutive year, and having made plans to liberate 175,000 pheasants, together with other upland game birds and animals. The forestry program, he added, has been pushed steadily during the last year.

Urges $5 License
He urged the sportsmen to take notice that practically all headwaters of Wisconsin streams are under private control.

C. A. Bogle, department controller, declared the program could be advanced materially if the hunters and fishermen would purchase the $5 license approved by the legislature.

Japanese Have to Be Careful About Thinking

Tokyo — (U) — An example of Japan's fear of anti-war sentiment among her people appeared recently when the Supreme Court validated a four month prison sentence meted out to a man who merely whispered his thoughts on the China conflict to a friend.

Japanese police charged that Sukeichi Okada and an unnamed friend were engaged in a casual conversation about a Tokyo-bound train. When their voices dropped to mere whispers, the report read, a woman passenger near them became suspicious.

She proudly testified, in Okada's trial, that she eavesdropped and heard him voice anti-militaristic thoughts. The woman was highly praised for her patriotism.

Fake Invalids Recover As Family Sympathy Ends

BY DOROTHY DIX

Dear Miss Dix—I am a girl of 18, the oldest of four children. My mother is the victim of self-pity. She cannot adjust herself to living more humbly than she did previous to the depression, and she spends her time berating her lot.

The doctors can find nothing the matter with her, but she refuses to do any work and has placed the responsibility of running the family on my shoulders. The question I wish to ask you is how should I act toward her? When she is needlessly imposing upon me by staying in bed while I do all the housework and by making me take care of the younger children, should I submit quietly or stand up for my own rights? I want to do everything that is necessary for my mother's comfort and happiness, but I do not see why I should sacrifice all of my youth to her imaginary ills.

which she has got is by being firm with her. As long as you sympathize with her, mother, she will never get better. If you think that she is going to cheer up and sober up and accept the responsibilities of life again of her own accord you are very much mistaken. Somebody has a reform her and brace her up and make her behave herself just as they do any other set. For the time being she has lost the power to do it herself and she needs outside help.

Of course you are sorry for her, but you must recognize that she is having the time of her life. She is just wallowing in an orgy of woe and enjoying every minute of it. She is drunk on her own tears. If you think that she is going to cheer up and sober up and accept the responsibilities of life again of her own accord you are very much mistaken. Somebody has a reform her and brace her up and make her behave herself just as they do any other set. For the time being she has lost the power to do it herself and she needs outside help.

The reason that physicians advocate sending neurotic cases to sanatoriums is to get them away from their parents, for their families simply aggravate their trouble by weeping over them, spoiling them, giving in to all of their whims and caprices, whereas in a sanatorium they are dealt with firmly but kindly. Nobody listens to their tales of woe or weeps over them, but on the contrary they are made to control themselves and thus get a grip again on their emotions.

I am firmly convinced that half of the invalid women in the world are made invalids by their families. Knowingly before them and pitying them, and that they could be cured by their families having backbone enough to refuse to submit to their impositions. A woman is vain and wants the spotlight turned on her. She finds that the easiest way to do this is to "enjoy poor health" and have everybody pitying her and waiting on her hand and foot.

Or a woman is lazy and so she develops a poor heart or nerves or a weak back. Her unfortunate husband and children have to scuffle for themselves, pack up trays to her and walk on tiptoe to keep from disturbing her. But let something come up that these invalids want to do and they miraculously recover.

That invalidism can be made a craft, no one will deny. The sensible way to deal with it is to have a competent physician examine the patient, and if he can find nothing the matter then the family should refuse to sacrifice itself to him or her. If nobody came to sit by the imaginary sufferer's bed and hold her hand and sympathize with her, and especially if nobody took up her wails to her, there would be a marked diminution in bedridden invalids.

I certainly recommend that you try that remedy on your mother. If she is really sick, you want to do everything possible for her. If she is just a fake invalid, you want to let her know that you are not going to be fooled by her.

Convention Exists for Situation

The bidding at both tables was the same, i.e., South started with one diamond. East passed. South jumped to two no trump, and North went to three no trump. The opening lead, also, was the same, namely, the heart five.

"At the table at which I played as declarer, I won with the heart queen and immediately led a diamond. West ducked and the ten held. Now, hoping that the defender with the ace would be able to hold off and would choose to do so out of fear that I held three diamonds, I led the diamond king. After a long huddle, however, during which I could see him mentally tossing a coin, West took his ace, and after that I was finished. I never could return to dummy and, since West cleared his heart suit immediately, I finally wound up by going down three tricks.

"At the other table the first plays were exactly the same, and this time I went even as far as West's huddle on the second diamond play. This West, our teammate, guessed wrong; that is, he thought declarer had three diamonds, hence was afraid to take the second round. Having attained his objective of two diamond tricks, declarer then shifted to a club and took the finesse. It worked, and he established his fifth club while retaining heart control, winning, in all, four club tricks, two diamonds, two hearts, and one spade. The resultant evening of 900 points was our Waterloo.

"What we would like to know is just this: Was it luck, pure and simple, that at my table West took the second diamond, while at the other table our teammate held off until the third round? Was there any way of knowing which trick to take? Yours truly,

"W. S. Albany."

I cannot say whether or not it was luck that led one defender to the right play while the other was going astray. But there most definitely is a method whereby the correct play can be determined. There is a standard playing convention that meets this precise situation. When the dummy has a long suit and no outside entry, and when it is important for the defender who holds the stopper in that suit to know exactly what trick to take, so that declarer will be out of the suit and cannot reach dummy, the cards played by the other defender can give a clear message. As applied to this hand, the convention works like this:

When the first diamond is led to dummy, the ace-holding defender must, of course, concede the first trick. It is the other defender's duty to signal whether he holds two or three cards in that suit. With three, he plays the lowest; with a doubleton he begins an echo. In this case, had East used the convention, playing the deuce (obviously the lowest), West immediately would know that East had three diamonds, which would leave declarer with only two. West then would hop on the second diamond play and, thus, hold declarer's diamond winners to one instead of two. If East's diamond holding had been the 7-5 or 7-2 his proper play on the first diamond would be the seven spot. West then could assume that this was the start of a high-low and immediately place declarer with three rather than two diamonds. This would mean that West had to hold off until the third round. It is an extremely valuable convention for use in hands of this nature.

Marie Schneider's Tested Recipes

Every day is salad day in the summer time and yet despite their frequent appearance, salads need never lack variety. Vary the greens, vary the dressings, and change the accompaniments to suit the salad and the occasion.

Many a simple meal may be turned into a company repast by the addition of an attractive salad—added touch that always delights the guest. Here are recipes for such dainties that may be prepared in the morning and served either at the noon or evening meal.

Grapefruit Jelly Ring

1 1/2 cups grapefruit juice
1 cup orange juice
1 cup cold water
1 cup hot water

Soak Gelatin in cold water 5 minutes. Boil sugar and hot water until clear, about 3 minutes. Pour over soaked gelatin and stir until dissolved. Cool and then add grapefruit, orange, and lemon juice. Pour into ring mold and when gelatin begins to set add one can pitted white cherries. Unmold on large platter and arrange individual salads of fresh fruit around mold. Serves 12.

Carrot and Cabbage Salad

1 pkg lemon jello 1 teaspoon salt
1 pint boiling water 2 tbs vinegar
1 cup cabbage 1 cup cabbage, shredded
1 cup carrots, grated

Dissolve jello in boiling water. Add vinegar and salt. Chill. When slightly thickened, fold in carrots and cabbage. Turn into individual molds. Chill until firm. Unmold on lettuce, and garnish with mayonnaise. Serves 6.

Golden Glow Salad

1 pkg lemon jello 1 cup celery, cut fine
1 pint boiling water 1 green pepper, finely cut
1 cup canned pineapple juice 1 teaspoon salt
1 cup canned pineapple 1 cup raw pineapple, diced
1 cup carrots, grated and drained 2 tbs lemon juice

Dissolve jello in boiling water. Add pineapple juice, lemon juice and salt. Chill. When slightly thickened, add remaining ingredients. Pour into one large mold or 10 individual molds. Unmold on lettuce with mayonnaise.

My Neighbor Says—

Many garden makers have found it practical to stop cultivating their roses, perennials and shrubs at this season, and to apply a heavy mulch. A mulch retains the moisture and does away with the necessity of frequent cultivation. For a year or two mulching material can be dug into the soil in the Autumn or the following Spring, but if this practice is continued too long the ground will become so porous that it will dry out more quickly than usual. It is always wise to stop cultivating the roses before the middle of July in order that the plants may have time enough to ripen up their new wood before the coming of cold weather.

Rinse out your bathing suit in fresh water after you have been to the beach. It helps prevent the salt water from rotting the material.

When making cream sauce or using flour for thickening, if you use pastry flour it will mix easier and there will be less danger of its lumping than if you use bread flour.

PATTERN 1711

Use of Medicine Should Be Limited to Minimum

BY ANGELO PATRI

"Now, mother, I don't see how you can stick another thing into this car or tie anything else on, either. What is in that bag, anyway?"

"The medicines. I simply have to have them. I wouldn't dare go away without them. You must find room. I'll carry it on my lap."

"On your lap? Three hundred miles? And the dog, too? Leave the stuff at home. What's the idea? You can buy castor oil at any drug store in the village."

"I don't use castor oil. At least not the old-fashioned sort. There's no use in talking about it. This bag has to go. I have the lotion for poison ivy if Helen should get it, pills for indigestion, iodine for cuts, salve, bandages, rubarb and soda, quinine."

"Sure, I know. The whole drug store. And we don't need them. Forget them. I'll be responsible if you need any medicine. If Jimmy doesn't gorge himself he won't need rubarb and soda. A healthy boy with indigestion! He ought to be ashamed of himself. I tell you they will all be better off if you lose that bag. I hope you do."

But the bag went along, just in case.

Every household needs a medicine cabinet, but it ought to be locked and the key lost most of the time. Medicine should be used so rarely that the one person who knows about the key is entirely adequate to the need. Cold spring water that is pure; pure sweet air; vegetables freshly gathered, milk and eggs bought on the place, make medicine unnecessary. Children should not be dosed. They can be trained to a habit of taking medicine in season and out so they become regular contributors to the patent medicine folks. Don't tie them to such hobbies.

I would agree to the iodine and the boric acid and some bandages, and a box of band aids, so that cuts and scratches, so frequent in vacation time, can be promptly treated and forgotten. But that bag filled with boxes of pills and bottles of oil and whatnot—No. If medicine is needed let the doctor prescribe it, and as soon as the need for it is over, throw the stuff out. Don't worry about next time. Just take for granted that there will be no next time. Why should there be?

Having medicine handy tempts some people to use it, and to prescribe it for other folk—something I was taught very early in life—was never to be done. My father, noting what great satisfaction that my sister had recovered from an illness, gathered the various bottles and boxes that held medicines, emptied them, and destroyed the containers, all with wouldn't you?

Now there are just such new materials. One is colored crystal, amber, red, green or blue.

People who always have felt that something new was needed for the clothes closet, will welcome hangers made of this new material—not only good-looking, but actually designed for clothes. They have chromium or goldplated hooks for skirts, trousers, etc. There are special shapes for dresses, some curved up at the ends for evening frocks. Others have cross-bar for trousers or skirts and lingerie holders with notches for shoulder-straps.

Closet rods are made of the same material, and boxes of all sizes and shapes, including a new blanket box, are made of another transparent material. The possible color combinations can transform almost any closet into a jewel box. What could be cooler-looking than crystal and green for summer?

For new window treatments, curtain rods and rings come in transparent crystal and contrasting colors—several rings can be clipped together for tie-backs or festoons.

Rings are made for graceful supports for small tables trays for cocktails or flower vase holders. The table top is a flat piece of opaque plastic, in a choice of shapes; the rings are clipped on as legs, which are easily detached so the tray can be stored flat when not in use. Separate rings may be fastened to a shelf for use as tie-holders.

The box material also comes in baskets, of various shapes, which will hold water — and flowers; or they may be used for fruit centerpieces.

TO CLOSE PORES

Ice is one of Nature's best cosmetics—use it! Wally Westmore, Paramount's make-up expert, orders every star to rub a chunk of ice wrapped in a towel (or several pieces of tissue) over her face before applying make-up. It closes the pores, tones up the muscles and keeps the skin fine grained.

Dangers of the Home

II—POISON IN THE MEDICINE CHEST

The other day I read of a small child who "ate some lye" a long time ago. His throat was so badly burned as to just about close it. Doctors have been fighting for his life, and it now seems likely that the child will live, but he has had a dreadful time.

Some safety experts have suggested that pins should be stuck in the cork of every bottle of poison. That may help in some cases, but the stoppers of many bottles are not cork, and you would have a hard job putting pins in them!

Peroxide, rubbing alcohol and other non-poisonous antiseptics may serve almost, if not quite, as well as iodine for small cuts. If, however, iodine is kept in the house, always remember that it is a poison and must be kept out of reach of tiny tots.

Some day the makers of medicine cabinets may provide a special compartment for poisons, a compartment with a lock. With the key in the hand of the parents, this should help the cause of safety.

Another plan is to have a lock for the whole medicine cabinet. There are non-poisonous medicines which cause painful injury, if not death, when taken by small children.

At an age as early as possible, children should be taught not to touch medicine unless their parents tell them to do so.

Laws have been made to compel druggists to put a poison warning on all poison they sell. We should make it a lasting rule never to transfer a poison from one container to another, unless the new container is labeled AT ONCE with a poison warning.

Perhaps the best thing of all would be to keep all poisons out of the house. That would stop the worry in a hurry.

For Safety section of your scrapbook.

A child may look for "medicine" and find poison.

Why should lye be left where a tiny boy or girl could get it? Little ones have a special age when they go around and try to eat anything they can lay their hands on.

A more common danger is poison in the medicine chest. A child too young to know better may climb a washbasin and get into a medicine cabinet. If he finds poison, and swallows it, there may be a lasting sorrow in the family. Quick action by a parent (the use of an "antidote" may save him, but on the other hand death may result. I am sorry to say that many deaths take place from this cause.

Tiny tots are not the only ones who take poison by mistake. Even men and women (who surely ought to know better) sometimes reach into the medicine cabinet and take out the wrong bottle. This may happen in the dark, but no one should reach for medicine in the dark. "Let there be light!"

Some safety experts have suggested that pins should be stuck in the cork of every bottle of poison. That may help in some cases, but the stoppers of many bottles are not cork, and you would have a hard job putting pins in them!

GAY COTTON

"I'm ready to stay home or go visiting," this slenderizing triumph seems to say. And indeed Pattern 4846 was planned to suit many occasions, as well as many types of figures! Order this new Anne Adams creation today, and in no time you can make a compliment-catcher to wear from morning 'til night. Don't miss the fact that the yoke back is cut to extend to the front of the bodice—this means you have no shoulder seams to sew. Suitable fabrics are printed, cotton broadcloth, percale, dimity, printed rajah, spun rayon... all of which take kindly to the lovely flare of the puffed skirt, and to puffed or loose sleeves. Use braid, bows or buttons for trimming.

Pattern 4846 is available in women's sizes 34, 36, 38, 40, 42, 44, 46 and 48. Size 36 takes 4 yards 3/4 inch fabric, and 2 1/2 yards ric-rac.

WAY TO GIVE FLOWERS

Dear Mrs. Post: Is it improper for a man to carry the corsage to the house with him when he calls to take a girl to a dance, rather than to send it earlier from the florist?

Answer: The only advantage in sending the flowers is that the girl might be able to choose a different dress if she thought them unbecoming to the one she had intended wearing. On the other hand, if he asks her ahead of time what kind of flowers she prefers, he might very well take them with him. On second thought, I believe the majority of younger women would rather have a man ask in either case. Their appreciation of his kindness would probably grow less in proportion to their disappointment at having to change into another—and quite possibly less liked dress!

Another Man Asks for Relaxation of a Rule

Dear Mrs. Post: Please settle a discussion which has arisen in our group. "A" claims that in the case of entering an automobile, the man—who in this problem is also the driver—should assist the lady into her seat and then go around the car and enter from the left side. "B," on the other hand, says that the man should enter first, because entering the car on the side facing the traveled part of the roadway is a violation of the traffic code, and is also very hazardous, particularly in a congested city. Since self-preservation is the first law of nature, the male of the species is entitled to some relaxation of the rules of etiquette, isn't he?

Answer: "A" is right, excepting on the corner of, let us say, Broadway and 42nd street in New York, or any other place where there is a line of traffic always waiting to drive up to an entrance so that the driver naturally has to get in his car and move away as fast as he can. But under any other condition the man helps a woman companion into her place first and then watches the traffic so as not to be run over, and goes around on the other side and gets in.

"IS IT ALL REAL?"

A flock of shots rang out. Hanson bumped into Asey as the doorway.

"We had to shoot, Asey!" he said breathlessly. "We had to! She went for the Carrs--she'd got it out of the well, and into the barrow, and she was just making for your reader when the Carrs came back. And without a second's warning, she pulled that gun and shot at Tim--e had to shoot her!"

"How's Tim?"

"She just winged him, but--well, we got her," Hanson said.

Asey pushed past Hanson out-doors.

Timothy, gripping his shoulder, was sitting on the running board of the little coupe. Beyond, in the grass, lay Peg Boone.

"Is it all real?" Tim asked blankly. "Is it all real?"

Asey nodded. "We had to let her know where it was to get her. We just meant for her to hang herself as you might say. We--"

"Well, you certainly did," Mrs. Carr, pushing Emma to her elbow, pointed out of the coupe. "You certainly did. Asey, what's in that barrow--is she was a reader? What made her go for Tim like that?"

"What she went for him?" Mrs. Carr asked. "What she went for him?"

"Yes, she went for him," Asey said. "Peg didn't have any way of getting out there. From what I have been able to discover she took her car out around the other side of the point, as far as she could, and then she walked. But the stuff was gone. I s'pose she saw the tire tracks, and done her own figuring."

Timothy's arm, and leaned down to put the roll back in his bag.

"That," he said, "that'll hold you. I guess. Now just you keep quiet, and--"

"Keep quiet nothing," Tim said. "Asey, explanations are tedious, but you'd best begin. How did you know it was her? How did you know it was a woman?"

"I went back to the beginning," Asey said. "An' it come over me that first off, it was sort of a feminine touch to pin that note back on the door for Pam, after takin' the knife. An' it was a feminine temper. An' she smoked cigarettes--an' she liked your Turkish best. An' she's an athletic sort. I thought: so when she vaulted the barber, were barricaded the other day."

"How?" Mrs. Carr said. "Why? I don't--somehow, I can't get this through my head."

"She was up in Roddy's plane," Asey said. "She seen that lump after Mar had d. Brigham remembered her. She was over there that day--only no one remembered till we started askin'." She was--

"Unobtrusive," Tim said. "It there. Everywhere. Well, I got that much. I don't. Pam? I said she was all over the place. So she says the ambergris from the plane--"

"But Marina had taken the brown wagon, when she got to land," Asey said. "Peg didn't have any way of getting out there. From what I have been able to discover she took her car out around the other side of the point, as far as she could, and then she walked. But the stuff was gone. I s'pose she saw the tire tracks, and done her own figuring."

est cat along—that war durin' the time that she was presumably gettin' her car from the garage. She got it. She timed it beautifully. Took Hanson some time to follow her move, this morning. But she left the little glass bead from the clock in the roadster, when she started it."

"But the mutal—why was that named?"

Asey smiled. "Everyone was sore," he said "at the way they was pictured in that thing. Why 'he' was made to look like when I looked at the pictures of it a while ago, I thought I'd been barkin' on the wrong tree. Peg Boone was an Indian girl. Lorne hadn't distorted her any."

"She was skinnin' some sort of animal," Pam said.

"Yup. An' she was skinnin' it with a knife," Asey said, "held in her left hand. See what I mean? There you are, anyway. That's how things happened. Marina took Jack from her. Marina swiped her drawings. Marina got the ambergris first."

"Her left hand?" Pam said.

"Why, I never thought of that—but we didn't we think of her?"

"Why should we at first?" Asey said.

"She was so solicitous about you—by no means. You pointed to the ambergris. When she come back to get that after killin' Marina an' all wot taken it you see. But the minute she found you didn't know she stopp'd bein' solicitous. Hanson I see O'Malley an' Shorty settin' out of that car, an' Jennings is here—I'm com' down to avert some murders."

The two troopers and Jennings were carrying on what seemed to be a first-class rough and tumble when he got out on the lawn.

"Come on!" Asey said. "Snap out of it."

"Okey," Shorty said. "I suppose I ain't dignified—say it's the first time we seen him since Company B disbanded."

Asey went back to the house and stated up the stairs just as the clock struck eleven. The noise died away, and he heard voices drifting down from Aaron's room.

"Asey," Pam said, "is marvelous."

"All his work," Hanson said.

"All of it?"

"Naturally," Cummings told them.

Asey hesitated.

Toots, the parrot, was staring at him from his cage.

"Ah," Toots said, speaking for the first and only time in his life. "ah, brains! Brains, brains, brains brains!"

"Ain't it?" Asey said, "the truth?"

Secretary Roper Issues Don'ts for Vacation Boating

Cabinet Member Urges Care to Prevent Summer Accidents

Post-Crescent Washington Bureau

Washington—If your vacation plans include boating on Wisconsin lakes and streams, Secretary of Commerce Daniel C. Roper would like for you to be careful not to suffer one of those "small boating accidents" which take thousands of lives annually.

Warning that most of the accidents are due to "bravado or inexperience," he has issued some "don'ts" prepared by the bureau of marine inspection and navigation.

"Don'ts" applicable to occupants of all types of small boats are:

Don't overload the boat.

Don't rock the boat ("That's like saying, 'I didn't know it was loaded,'" Secretary Roper adds).

Don't try to show off in a boat.

Don't fool in a boat.

Don't change seats in a small boat.

Don't venture too far in a small boat.

Don't brave a thunder squall.

Seek shelter in time.

Don't take chances when non-swimmers are along.

Don't forget spare oars and anchor.

Don't fail to provide life belts for children.

Don't be afraid of a boat—respect it.

'Specials' For Sailboats

For small sailboats, he issued the following special "don'ts":

Don't make fast the main sheet.

Don't jib in a heavy wind.

Don't be afraid to shorten sail.

Don't attempt to carry sail through a thunder squall.

Motor boats have their own particular hazards, too, and these are the special "don'ts" for them:

Don't take chances with fire and explosion.

Don't tolerate an installation which lacks modern safeguards.

Don't forget your wake can damage others.

Don't allow gas or oil in the bilge.

DANCE TEAM WITH BILLROY'S SHOW

King and Roche, formerly at the Club Montmartre in Paris, are only one of the unusual, and startling acts offered by the 1938 edition of Billroy's Comedians.

This dance combination brings the favorite steps of old-world night clubs to American audience.

Billroy's Comedians and their unusual feature Yolanda, "Queen of Bubble Dancers" will appear in Appleton on Thursday July 14 presenting their two hour performance under a blue and white tented theater, at the Lynch Show Grounds on S. Memorial Drive at city limits.

Don't operate near swimmers in the water.

"Violation of these ordinary precautions can bring disaster," reminds the secretary, ominously.

Accident Victim Still In Serious Condition

Rudolph Ertl, 22, route 3, Chilton, who was critically injured in an automobile accident July 3 near Chilton, is still in a serious condition at St. Elizabeth hospital, it is reported. Ertl suffered fractures of the skull and jaw, a chest injury and cuts and bruises when he lost control of his car and it struck a culvert on Highway 136, six miles west of Chilton.

Wisconsin Pays U. S. 96 Million In Internal Taxes

Total for Year Ended June 30 Is 16 Million Higher Than in 1937

Post-Crescent Washington Bureau

Washington—Uncle Sam's record year in tax collections, the fiscal year ended June 30, took $96,675,777.20 in federal internal revenue taxes from Wisconsin as against $80,960,149.31 in the previous fiscal year, the bureau of internal revenue announced today.

The increases in collections of individual and corporation income taxes indicate increased income, as the tax rates were the same during the two fiscal years. The increase in social security tax collections indicate in part increased employment and in part increased efficiency in collecting these payroll taxes, officials said.

In the different groups, the collections of federal internal revenue taxes increase as follows in the fiscal year 1938 over the fiscal year 1937:

Corporation income taxes, from $15,206,222.55 to $22,076,732.14;

Individual income taxes, from $12,375,588.77 to $14,914,519.59;

Excess profits taxes, from $575,488.14 to $1,187,907.31;

Payroll taxes (social security and railroad retirement), from $4,833,991.91 to $11,654,283.56.

Members of the executive committee of the county board will pay an inspection visit to the Moloch Foundry and Machine company tomorrow before considering a request that taxes and interest against the company be reduced by the county from about $34,700 to approximately $18,000. The request was made by Walter Roloff, acting receiver for the company, and other company representatives last week.

VASES PUZZLE EXPERTS

Paris—(4)—Workers in a stone quarry near Nancy found fifteen glass vases. Paris experts couldn't tell why they were all of the same peculiarly curved design or who made them. Other explorations at the site disclosed the remains of a medieval village, but the experts say the vases antedate the town.
